Ike Asks New Authority To Negotiate Tariff Cuts

Trains Collide In English Fog; 10 Dead, 81 Hurt

LONDON, Jan. 30 (AP)—A coast-bound steam train plowed into the rear of another in dense fog outside London tonight, killing 10 persons and injuring 81. Both trains were jammed with commuters, and it was five hours before the last victim was freed from the tangled wreckage.

The moving locomotive locked with the rear coach of the standing train near Heathway station, 10 miles from downtown London.

The engineer and fireman on the locomotive escaped with minor injuries. The engineer had slowed the train because of a fog warning. The standing train was waiting for a go-ahead signal.

The fog laid a choking cloud over 21 English counties slowing road and rail traffic and halting airline services.

Nurses and doctors from nearby hospitals joined firemen and the local civil defense corps to give aid.

The two trains involved were headed, respectively, for the popular seaside resort of Southend and for Shoburyness, along the coast.

The last car of the stationary train and the engine of the approaching train were derailed.

The crash came during England's second big fog of the winter. Thousands of motorists abandoned their vehicles rather than drive through the thickening mist.

London's last heavy fog brought a rail disaster just before Christmas in the crash of two trains carrying commuters and shoppers home from the capital. Ninety were killed near suburban Nineham—on the other side of the capital from tonight's crash.

DEFENDS CAR PRICES — Harlow H. Currier, president of General Motors, is shown as he yesterday defended automobile price increases before the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee. President Urges Congress Extend Trade Program

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP)—President Eisenhower told Congress today that a five-year extension of the reciprocal trade program with broadened authority to negotiate tariff cuts is "essential to America's vital national interests."

"It will strengthen our economy which is the foundation of our national security," he said. "It will enhance the economic health and strength of the free world. It will provide a powerful force in waging total peace."

The White House said Eisenhower's program contemplates authority to reduce tariffs by five per cent each year during the next five years. After the first five per cent cut, each succeeding five per cent reduction would be applied to what remained.

Congress Fight Expected

The program appeared to be heading for a sharp fight in Congress, although there were some early professions of support from members of both parties.

Following up the request he made in his State of the Union message Jan. 9, Eisenhower sent a special message on the trade program to Capitol Hill. Declaring the United States cannot afford to ignore the challenge presented by Soviet Communist trade and aid programs, Eisenhower said: "The assured future of the reciprocal trade program is necessary for our national security and for our entire foreign policy."

Eisenhower cited creation of the six-nation European Economic Community as "a further and very specific factor necessitating a minimum extension of five years."

"Vital" To U. S. Interests

"Such an extension, with the tariff reduction authority to be requested," he said, "is necessary to carry the trade agreements program through the early formative years of the European Economic Community and strengthen our ability to further vital American interests there and elsewhere in the world."

The European group—Belgium, France, Germany, Italy, Luxembourg and the Netherlands—bought nearly three billion dollars worth of American goods last year. It will be setting up a common tariff against imports in 1962, near the end of the five-year renewal period proposed by Eisenhower, and the President said this country's negotiations "must be based on a clear grant of adequate authority."

Mass Killer To Be Tried In Nebraska

Wyoming Waives Claim To Gunman Held In 11 Slayings

DOUGLAS, Wyo., Jan. 30 (AP)—Nebraska officers won custody today of Charles Starkweather, the strutting, trigger-happy garbage truck driver accused of 11 slayings in two states.

Starkweather and his comely 14-year-old girl friend, Carl Ann Fugate, signed extradition papers agreeing to return to Lincoln, Neb.—in and around which 10 of the killings took place—where they face murder charges.

Wyoming, accusing Starkweather of another murder, readily yielded to Nebraska's demands for the youth, captured here yesterday.

Gov. Milward Simpson of Wyoming, firm opponent of capital punishment, said earlier today he would commute any death penalty to life imprisonment.

Faces Electric Chair

Nebraska inflicts the death penalty in an electric chair.

Elmer Scheele of Lincoln, Lancaster County attorney, said both Starkweather and his girl friend voluntarily waived extradition.

Scheele said they would be returned in separate automobiles "as soon as possible." He said Starkweather said he was unwilling to fly.

Starkweather has said his girl friend had no part in the nine killings that rocked the Lincoln area this week.

Besides those slayings, Nebraska officers have questioned Starkweather about the fatal shooting Dec. 1 of Lincoln service station operator Robert Colvert, 21.

Motive Undetermined

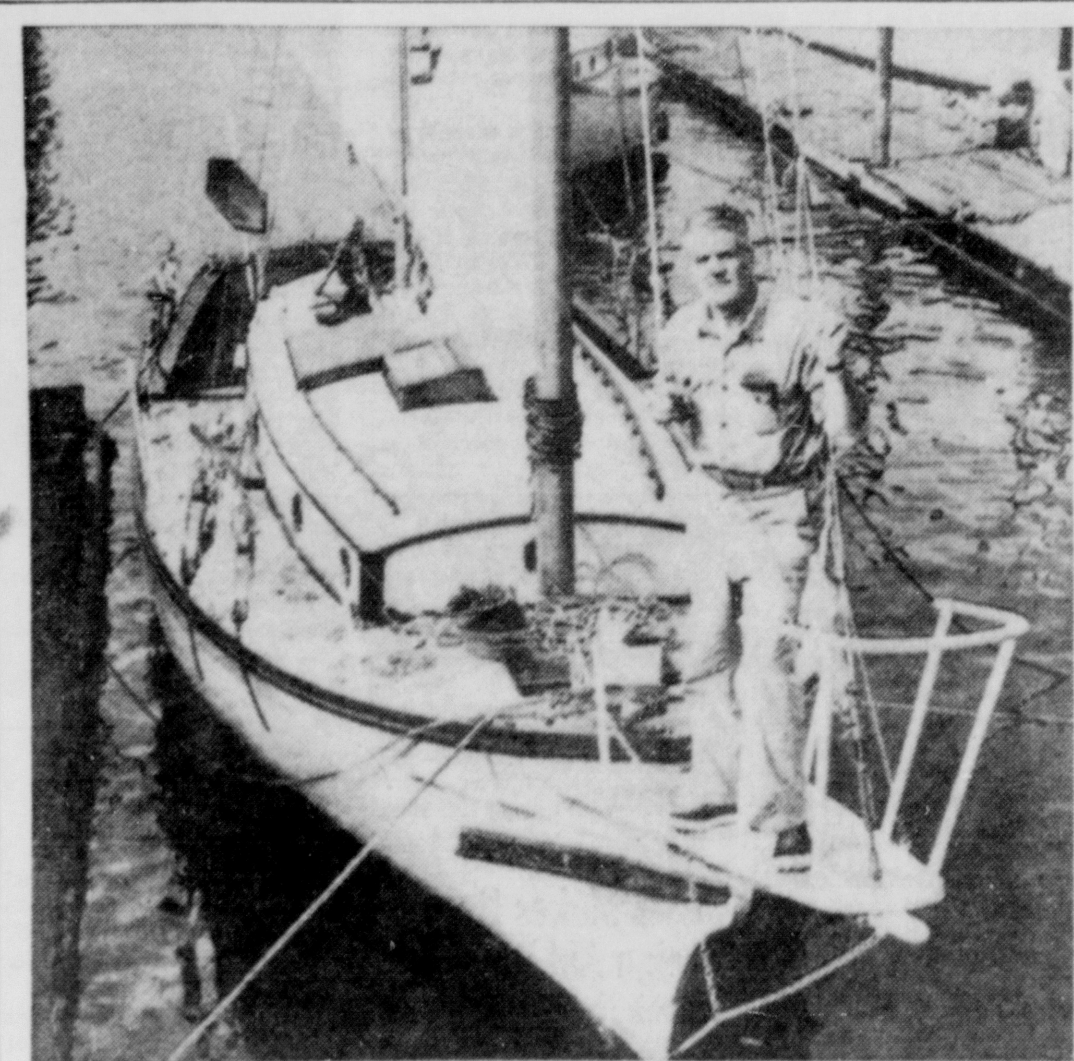

Officers said no attempt would be made to take a formal statement from Starkweather here.

Earlier, Detective Lt. E. R. Henninger of Lincoln said: "I feel we have him tied to the nine deaths in Lancaster County, the filling station operator—Colvert—and the man killed in Wyoming."

A motive for the slayings of the eight adults, two teen-agers and a 2-year-old girl remained a puzzle.

Guy Starkweather of Lincoln, the accused youth's father, said the youth thought he was going blind as the result of being struck in the head with a piece of lumber.

Henninger quoted Starkweather as saying "I got mad at people" and that people "were acting funny."

Pacifist Readies "Golden Rule"

Albert Bigelow, 51, Cos Cob, Conn., architect, poses on the prow of the 30-foot ketch "Golden Rule" which he and three companions propose to sail into the restricted Marshall Island area where the next nuclear tests are scheduled for April. A pacifist and a Quaker since 1948, Bigelow said he hopes the voyage will arouse public indignation against the testing of nuclear weapons. (AP Photofax)

Bill Provides Missile Base Construction

Measure Sent Back To House For Action On Several Changes

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP)—The Senate today rushed through a bill authorizing $549,570,000 for space age defense bases. Sen. Jackson (D-Wash.) declared "The American people should realize this is only the beginning of a very large defense authorization program."

The legislation would permit an immediate start on new launching sites for ballistic missiles, greater dispersal facilities for planes of the Strategic Air Command and similar construction projects.

Coming up behind the authorization bill is an emergency $1,410,000,000 defense appropriations measure. This will provide the actual money for the construction work as well as funds for a bigger missile program and more atomic submarines.

House To Act On Changes

The $549,570,000 bill, passed by voice vote, now goes back to the House, which passed it several weeks ago, for action on several changes made by the Senate. The amount of money authorized is not in dispute.

One change would permit the secretary of the Air Force to shift locations of the proposed SAC bases and give him limited authority to transfer up to 15 per cent of certain funds.

Sen. Stennis (D-Miss.), floor manager for the bill, criticized the locations planned for some of the bases because he said they were close to large populations or industrial areas. He said one proposed base already is "a vital strategic target" and that adding a SAC squadron there would be "doubling the attractiveness of the installation as a target."

ARPA Rider Eliminated

Another change made by the Senate was to strike out a House rider which would authorize the secretary of defense to set up his new Advanced Research Projects Agency. Stennis said the rider was not germane to a construction bill.

The emergency authorization and appropriations bills would give an extra spur of speed to the missile program in advance of the regular defense budget for the fiscal year starting July 1.

The Senate Appropriations Committee completed closed-door hearings on the appropriations measure today and scheduled a vote tomorrow.

One of the last witnesses before the committee was Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, deputy chief of the Air Force, who was reported to have called again for a stepup in production of B52 bombers, long-range jet planes.

GM Head Urges Tax Reductions To Aid Business

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP)—President Harlow Currier of General Motors called today for general tax cuts to stimulate business, including the sale of cars.

A tax reduction across the board—for everybody—would be a great boost to buying of goods "we have the capacity to produce," Currier told the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee.

Specifically, the head of the world's biggest manufacturer of motor vehicles said the public is exercising "caution" in making new commitments to buy cars.

Currier said the economic situation now is much like it was in 1954 when he said the seven-billion-dollar tax cut voted by Congress "contributed immeasurably" to a rebirth of confidence.

The Eisenhower administration has taken a position against general tax cuts at this time, with the explanation that defense needs will require heavy federal spending.

However, the door has not been finally closed. Secretary of the Treasury Anderson has indicated that if the present recession grows worse, the administration might recommend a tax cut.

Currier appeared before the subcommittee in its study of the auto industry pricing practices. He said General Motors had not raised its car prices as much as its costs had increased.

Some of today's questioning went off at a tangent from the main subject, with these results:

1. Currier said General Motors had been studying for years whether to build a small car to compete with imported foreign cars but "thus far it has not been practical from the standpoint of economics."
2. The GM chief said his corporation has taken, and continues to take, the position that ability of a company to pay higher wages is not a collective bargaining issue.

Baghdad Allies See Stepped-Up Red Offensive

ANKARA, Turkey, Jan. 30 (AP)—The Baghdad Alliance concluded its conference here today with an American-backed warning that "Communist imperialism" is putting more steam behind its efforts to gain control of the Middle East and its oil riches.

It proposed to fight the Red offensive by exposing Communist propaganda and subversion, beefing up the Middle East's economy and tightening up military teamwork.

A 2,300-word communique summing up conclusions of the four-day conference said communism was trying to widen wedges already driven in the area by using propaganda and subversion "to exploit nationalism, fear of war, economic distress, the plight of Arab refugees, colonialism and Afro-Arab sentiment."

The conference, attended by U.S. Secretary of State Dulles as an observer, said "constant vigilance and increased solidarity" was the best hope of saving the "peace, liberty and independence" of the Middle East. It called for "constant exposure of subversive penetration, falsely presented as friendly coexistence, and help for underdeveloped countries."

The fourth conference of ministers of Pakistan, Turkey, Iran, Iraq and Britain failed, however, to win two main objectives of the Asian members—all-out American partnership in the alliance and massive American and British economic aid.

Dulles said in a closing statement the United States "participates wholeheartedly in the commitment of the Baghdad Pact to cooperate for security and defense."

Dulles warned the Baghdad powers the threat of "Soviet imperialism" remains in the Middle East and that "constant vigilance and a cooperative effort" are needed if nations of the region are to preserve their independence.

He expressed belief the conference has proved that the Allies propose to stand together. But he warned: "There is, however, no room for complacency."

Maloney Accused Of Tapping Union's Funds For $171,110

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP)—Senate investigators, talking of "rackets" and "looting," accused labor leader William E. Maloney today of tapping union funds for $171,110 of illegitimate expense money.

The Senate Rackets Investigating Committee also brought out testimony that the president of the International Union of Operating Engineers failed to report these and some partly legitimate additional expenses—a total of $353,650—on his income tax returns for 1950 through 1956.

Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) promptly called for legislation to "stop up loopholes and prevent those who would be crooked and dishonest... from looting and pilfering union funds."

That was after committee accountants and investigators hauled out copies of union ledger sheets and other papers and said they showed money from dues paying members flowed into such things as running a 47-foot luxury yacht, country club dues, membership in race tracks, a Washington apartment, and doubled up and tripled up expense accounts.

The $35,000 pleasure yacht went on union books as craft for inspecting construction projects along the Atlantic Coast. In all, the yacht cost was put at $130,000, including the expenses of operating it eight years. There was testimony, too, about a $13,387.29 European trip.

The members, 270,000 of them, run bulldozers, cranes and other heavy equipment on construction projects.

Stopgap Economic Aid Pledged France

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP)—France is reported ready to announce it has succeeded in obtaining about 650 million dollars in emergency aid from Western sources to bolster its economy.

The Eisenhower administration was understood to have pledged about 261 million dollars.

The aid package, a combination of credits, waivers on loan payments, surplus cotton and military aid deals, has been negotiated by French economic expert Jean Monnet in three weeks of confidential talks here.

The biggest American chunk about 180 million dollars, is permission for the French to postpone loan payments on World War II credits.

Surplus cotton, and special military aid purchases make up the rest of the American assistance.

N.C. Governor Condemns Klan

RALEIGH, N.C., Jan. 30 (AP)—Gov. Luther Hodges denounced the Ku Klux Klan in a statement today and said that the responsibility for the Maxton incident in which Klansmen were routed in a hail of gunfire by aroused Indians rests squarely on the Klan.

The governor said "we will maintain law and order in North Carolina." He promised local law enforcement officers the complete cooperation of the state government.

Hodges said the Klan "has shown itself to be an organization of violence and intimidation." He said the Klan and its leaders "rant against communism" but they actually give aid and comfort to Communist Russia by provoking incidents "that are exploited in propaganda by Russia."

He said the Maxton incident is of "serious concern" because several people could have been killed or injured; because such a happening "is an assault on peace and good order and a slur on the name of our state"; and because "of the possible stimulus to other and more serious future incidents."

Missing Plane Found, All Five Aboard Killed

BRADSHAW, W. Va., Jan. 30 (AP)—The search for a missing airplane and its five passengers ended on a bleak mountain top at the West Virginia-Virginia border near here about noon today.

The first person to identify the wreckage, Herman Lee Mullens, 25, of Paynesville, McDowell County, said four bodies were inside the plane, while the fifth, that of one of the two women aboard, had been thrown clear. There had been no fire.

The plane, a chartered flight from Florida to Charleston, had been missing since Tuesday night.

Occupants of the plane had been previously identified as:

Beverly L. Michie, 48, former Charleston attorney but more recently a hardware merchant at Bradenton, Fla.; his mother, Mrs. Bertha M. Michie, 72; a nurse, Mrs. Louise Puckett of Clearwater, and two co-pilots, Thomas Starnad and Robert Phillips, both of the Clearwater area.

The two-engine white plane with blue markings had been chartered at Clearwater from a commercial flying service for an ambulance trip to bring Mrs. Michie north for medical attention.

Court Bars Girls To Halt Flirting With Desperados

DOVER, Tenn., Jan. 30 (AP)—All girls under 18 were barred from Circuit Judge Joe Spencer's courtroom today to prevent any more flirting with four young Texas jailbreakers on trial for kidnapping and shooting a state trooper.

Spencer said he had noticed several teen-age girls "throwing kisses" at the four defendants yesterday and picking up cigarette butts the boys had discarded.

Court officers said many of the girls swarmed into the courtroom earlier this week while a jury was being selected to try the four.

The final juror was chosen today. The defendants, already serving prison terms up to 30 years for robbing a motel near here more than a year ago, are being tried now in the kidnapping and wounding of Trooper J. W. Wilbrey. The officer was kidnapped shortly after the motel robbery. He recovered from pistol wounds.

Saud Gift Car Figure Felled

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP)—Victor R. Purse, 39, former deputy chief of protocol for the State Department, was found unconscious today in his gas-filled apartment.

Purse, who figured in a controversy last fall when he accepted a $3,000 gift automobile from King Saud of Saudi Arabia, was taken to a hospital where he was listed in fair condition.

Purse's mother, Dr. Grace Purse, said he had been "terribly upset for some months about the car and the breakup with his wife."

It was disclosed last night that Purse had been living apart from his wife and their two sons, Victor Jr., 14, and Geoffrey, 12.

After the automobile incident, in which the State Department said Purse used "bad judgment," he was transferred from the protocol post and made director of the department's Bureau of International Organization Affairs.

Japanese Sailors Tour Pearl Harbor

HONOLULU, Jan. 30 (AP)—The first Japanese warships to enter Hawaiian waters since Pearl Harbor was attacked on Dec. 7, 1941 were docked at this historic U.S. Naval base today on a good-will visit.

Rear Adm. Sadayoshi Nakayama's flagship, the destroyer Haruzaka, accompanied by the frigates Kaya, Kusu and Sugi was greeted by a friendly 21-gun salute, ukulele music and hula girls when the vessels steamed into Pearl Harbor yesterday.

Japanese sailors toured the vast Pearl Harbor naval base in boats today as guests of the U.S. Navy. The tours took them past the rusted wrecks of the battleships Arizona and Utah, sunk in the Dec. 7 Japanese air attack.

Unemployment Rise Expected Next Month

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP)—Secretary of Labor Mitchell said today he expects more than four million persons to be out of work next month.

Mitchell also told a news conference however he does not believe the February unemployment figure will exceed 4½ million.

"I would expect that in March and April you would see a slight decline, with a more decided decline in unemployment in May and June," Mitchell said.

Mitchell noted that historically February is the month of heaviest unemployment.

Charge Details Will Be Supplied FCC Members

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP)—Details of the allegations of misconduct that have been raised against members of the Federal Communications Commission will be supplied to them tomorrow.

This was announced tonight by Rep. Moulder (D-Mo.), chairman of a special House subcommittee which will open hearings Monday into the allegations.

Moulder said all seven commissioners would be questioned about specific charges. But he said—without naming the commissioners—that he understood two of the bills of particulars do not contain allegations of personal misconduct.

A committee staff report prepared by its chief counsel, Bernard Schwartz, got into print last week, but the committee has refused to sanction it with an official release.

Moulder was asked tonight whether there was any talk—in a closed door session of the committee which discussed the bills of particulars—of Schwartz's resignation.

"No comment," was his only reply.

The Schwartz report, as printed, charges that some commissioners illegally accepted favors from persons in the communications industry. It said some fraternized with individuals who had cases pending before the commission.

The committee cleared the way today for the detailed FCC inquiry by winding up its generalized survey of six federal regulatory agencies, including the FCC.

Tax Man Rules Out Monkeys As Dependents

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 30 (AP)—Some monkeys may act like people but the Internal Revenue Service says they can't be claimed as dependents, especially if they can't even write their own names.

A vaudeville performer was told by the federal income tax people here yesterday that he could not claim the two monkeys in his act as dependents.

"But, you really should let me list them, they're smarter than lots of humans," the performer protested. "They can even sign their names."

"How?" asked the tax clerk. "They make a cross," said the vaudevillian.

"That's not enough," replied the clerk.

Ethel Barrymore's Arm Broken In Fall

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 30 (AP)—Ethel Barrymore suffered a broken arm in a fall at her home and has withdrawn from a film TV show. The 78-year-old actress had been scheduled to play the outlaw's mother in "The Brand of Jesse James" for "Playhouse 90."

Fairless Criticizes Union Profit-Sharing Proposal

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP)—Steel executive Benjamin F. Fairless said tonight unemployment would increase if industry adopted a union proposal to share business profits with workers.

Fairless spoke out in a prepared speech accepting an award from Vice President Nixon on behalf of National Business Publications, Inc.

His remarks came two weeks after Walter Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers Union, announced he would push the profit-sharing plan in mid-year negotiations with the auto industry. Reuther contended it would boost consumer purchasing power and avert a recession.

Fairless strongly disagreed, saying: "A squeeze like that on profits... would stop investment cold, lower productivity and increase unemployment. And that, I submit, is hardly the pattern of progress or the way to strengthen our economy."

Fairless said he has never been against wage increases. But he insisted they must bear a relationship to increased production of goods and services.

He added: "And, in the last ten years, we haven't. A 26 per cent gain in industrial productivity has been more than absorbed by a 61 per cent rise in wage rates."

"The difference between the 26 per cent gain in output and the 61 per cent rise in wages is illusion. It is a penny as far as increasing consumer purchasing power because of course, it represents inflation."

Fairless offered an alternative. He said this was "a balanced overall movement for a war with wages, profits and productivity going up in and out of step."

New York School Controversy Rages

NEW YORK, Jan. 30 (AP)—Mayor Robert F. Wagner today promised police protection to any principal of New York City public schools who "feels that it is necessary."

The mayor also said a new plan "is pretty nearly ready" which would place problem students in special schools.

Wagner's comments were made at a news conference while a heated controversy raged between city school officials and a Kings County grand jury investigating juvenile delinquency in the public schools.

Top school officials say a junior high school principal may have killed himself because a grand juror threatened him with indictment. The foreman of the jury called the charge a "deliberate lie."

Police announced patrolmen have been stationed at 41 schools with seven schools being patrolled inside and out.

George Goldfarb, 33, principal of Brooklyn's John Marshall Junior High School, jumped to his death Tuesday from the roof of his apartment house before he was to make his third appearance before the grand jury.

His school was the one in which a 13-year-old white girl was raped 10 days ago by a Negro boy. In other violence, a policeman on duty outside the school was roughed up, and a recreational teacher was assaulted inside the school. Three Negro youths—none students—were arrested in the policeman and teacher assaults.

In another Brooklyn school, a Negro boy raped a Negro girl last Tuesday night.

The third rape of a teen-aged girl in Brooklyn in the past 10 days came last night when a 12-year-old Negro girl was assaulted in a tenement hallway while the girl's younger brother cringed nearby. Two Negro boys, 15 and 16, were arrested later and charged with the crime.

African Racial Trials Ordered

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, Jan. 30 (AP)—A magistrate today ordered 95 opponents of South Africa's white supremacy policy to stand trial on high treason charges.

They were accused of trying to overthrow the government and set up a Communist regime. The defense said they used only persuasion in campaigning against the government's race policy.

Magistrate F. C. A. Wessel held, after 13 months of court hearings, that there was sufficient reason for putting all the accused on trial. The hearings are similar to a grand jury investigation.

The defendants are 17 whites, 60 Negroes, 16 Indians and 2 of mixed blood. Five are women. Trial is expected to begin in about three months. Defense counsel V. C. Berrange asked for a jury trial, but a special court of two or three judges is expected to hear the case.

In his final summation, Berrange declared that if all the evidence the government produced constituted treason then "there is an end in this country to all that is implicit in the term democracy."

Oswald Pirov, head of the wartime pro-Nazi New Order group, summed up for the government, declaring all the defendants were either Communists or Communist sympathizers.

Missile Worker Is Suspended For 'Loose Talk'

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla., Jan. 30 (AP)—An aircraft worker connected with the Atlas missile test program has been suspended for two weeks without pay for "loose talk," the Air Force disclosed today.

The Air Force also said other cases of suspected security violations involving employees of various missile contractors are being reviewed.

Lt. Col. Sam Bruno, security officer at the missile test center, said all contractors involved in missile testing have increased their programs for security education and security indoctrination.

He said there has been a re-emphasis of restrictions against careless talk about classified missile projects.

Bruno said the Air Force informed Convair division of General Dynamics Corp., builder of the Atlas 5,000-mile range ballistic missile that a Convair worker—not a technician—had attempted to impress associates with his information about the Atlas program.

He said this information, if tied to other technical data, could have resulted in a serious security breach.

Convair suspended the worker for two weeks—the equivalent of a fine between $200 and $300—and warned him that a further breach of security would bring summary dismissal.

Russia Makes Its Foreign Aid Pay Off

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP)—Sen. Dworshak (R-Idaho) said today that the Soviet Union has spent only a sixth the amount that the United States has spent on foreign aid and produced 29 times the result.

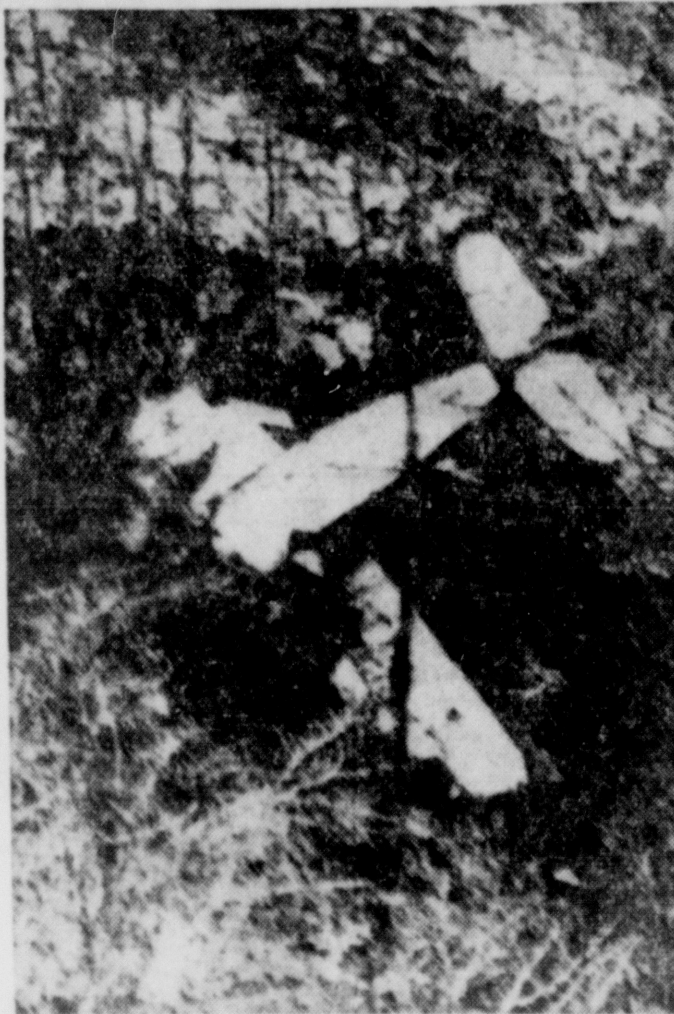

Dworshak, a member of the Senate Appropriations Committee, offered figures to show that since World War II the Soviets have spent 1½ billion dollars in aid to free world countries and 8½ billions for Communist satellite nations. By comparison, he said, the United States spent 60 billion to help foreign countries.

"The Russians have taken 29 countries into the Soviet fold and we have lost that many from the free world," he added in a statement.

Coal Mine Accidents Killed 473 Last Year

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP)—Coal mine accidents in 1957 caused 473 deaths, an increase of 28 over 1956, the Bureau of Mines reported today.

Estimated total coal production was 513½ million tons, a drop of 14,300,000 from 1956. Bituminous production totaled an estimated 490 million tons, down 10,874,000. Anthracite production was 25,472,000 tons, compared with 28,900,000 in 1956.

Work time dropped 6,800,000 hours in 1957, 2½ million in the bituminous industry and 4,200,000 in anthracite.

High Winds Keep Missiles Grounded

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla., Jan. 30 (AP)—A jet stream over Cape Canaveral with wind velocities of 200 to 230 miles an hour, threatened an indefinite delay in America's satellite-launching program tonight.

The Army's Jupiter-C missile and the Navy's Vanguard rocket are on launching pads at the missile test center but it appears that both will be pinned to the ground for several days by high winds aloft.

Advertising Up 5½%

The Soviet news agency said the Russian medical men were officially invited to make the trip by Dr. Francis Grant, director of research and development of Smith, Kline and French of Philadelphia.

Annapolis Attorney To Seek Phipps' Seat

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 30 (AP)—Battle lines between Anne Arundel County's two Democratic factions were drawn tighter today when O. Bowie Duckett, Annapolis attorney, announced he will seek the state senate seat now held by Sen. Louis N. Phipps (D-Anne Arundel).

Duckett said he will file for nomination as a candidate of the regular Democratic organization, the anti-Phipps faction headed by Ralph L. Lowman, president of the county commissioners.

Phipps will seek renomination by his party in the May 20 primary and is forming a ticket to run against the organization's candidates for the Senate, House of Delegates and board of commissioners.

Highly-Respected Widow, 57, Pleads Guilty To Larceny

TOWSON, Md., Jan. 30 (AP)—Mrs. Edith M. Reinhardt, 57-year-old widow praised by her minister and neighbors for outstanding community spirit, pleaded guilty today to larceny of $4,272 entrusted to her.

Mrs. Reinhardt was charged with unauthorized use of funds of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Maryland State Firemen's Assn. she had been treasurer for nine years.

An audit last May disclosed unauthorized withdrawals amounting to $25,102. The prosecution dropped nine charges of embezzlement and one of larceny after a trial.

Circuit Judge Michael Paul Smith postponed sentence and ordered a "very careful" investigation by the probation department.

"Where Are Paratroopers?" Mississippi Legislator Charges Brooklyn Worse Than Little Rock

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP)—Rep. Williams (D-Miss.) told his colleagues today that New York City officials obviously are unable to cope with violence in their schools.

"Where are the paratroopers?" he asked. Discussing recent violence in Brooklyn schools, Williams said no such things had occurred at Little Rock, Ark. where President Eisenhower called out troops in the school integration crisis.

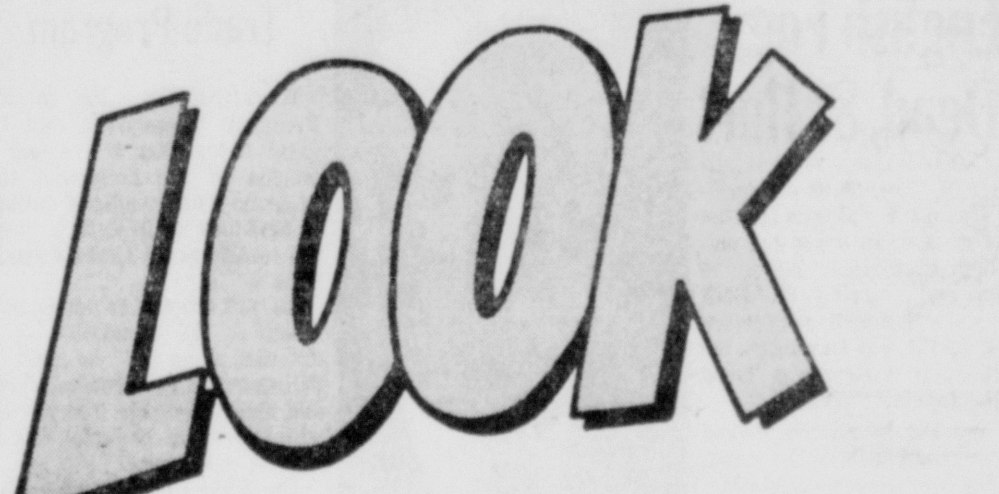

"There is no comparison between Little Rock and Brooklyn," Williams said. "No students have been raped in Little Rock, no students have been stabbed in Little Rock, no students have beaten up teachers and there are no organized criminal gangs roaming the streets of Little Rock."

Eastern politicians who were "so vociferous during the Little Rock episode," Williams said, now are "silent as the tomb."

"Where are the paratroopers? Why is it that the President has not federalized the New York National Guard? Are our armed services to be used solely in the South to make sure that the President's private definition 'peace and order' is achieved?"

Cleric Suggests Churches Use Motivation Research

By H. D. CHAMBLISS
Associated Press Staff Writer

Why not, said the Rev. Dr. R. Dean Goodwin of New York, director of communications for the American Baptist Convention. Why shouldn't the church do what advertisers have recently learned to do, reach into the unconscious with hidden persuaders to trip springs of action that make people do things without realizing why?

In fact, Dr. Goodwin said churches should combine their resources to study and use the new art called motivation research. That's the art, he explained, of studying people's hidden needs and desires so you can appeal to them without the people realizing you are doing it.

"If you put the same kind of coffee in three bags of different color, women will select the brown package and swear that it is the best coffee, even though it is in the same package," he said.

"All right, what color should the church walls be. This?" he asked, indicating the tan and brown of a chapel. "I don't know. How about the hymnals? The seat cushions? What color should they be?"

"Or take the order of worship. In a church I had in Nebraska, we put the offering at the end. Contributions increased. Why? I don't know. We should find out."

"And how about church advertising? It looks to me—to use radio terms—as if it's all commercial and no show. Does it make the man who doesn't go to church want to go to church? I doubt it."

That's why, he said, churches should study these things, find out how preachers can deliver sermons that "reach a man where he lives," how to show the non-goer that church attendance will be rewarding, how to convince people that Christian living pays off.

Julia Ward Howe was the composer of the song with the line, "Mine Eyes Have Seen the Glory of the Coming of the Lord."

Gathers Solve Sack Problem In Paris Styles

PARIS, Jan. 30 (AP)—Sacks with a puff of drapery on the skirt front ran away with the Guy Laroche and Jean Desses collections yesterday.

Generous gathers above and behind the knee solved the problem of how to get around in the sack. Instead of hobble-hopping, you can stride if you feel like it.

Laroche's second favorite is a long, loose-bodied dress with a very frilly or puffy skirt gathered on at mid-hip. Now that the designers are playing around with the plain old sack, it's often in danger of being submerged in drapes, frills or frou-frou.

Desses declared: "The sack had to be made attractive. It was despised by every man."

It was also, some suspect, too easy to copy. The new versions would drive a home dressmaker to despair.

There is one sort of penguin-fronted sack, shown by both Desses and Laroche. It has a wide "V" or horseshoe shaped cutout to just below the waist, and the bodice is filled up with what the French call a "modesty," or elongated bib, often in white.

Others might be called sacks on the half-shell. A false coat is loose behind and reveals a fitted sheath in front. Laroche does another version with a false jacket.

The "baby doll" dresses that have been turning up all over, full from neck to knee, are not missing at Laroche, but he fits them in front.

Experts See No Serious West German Recession This Year

By HERB ALTSCHULL

BONN, Germany, Jan. 30 (AP)—Despite danger signs ahead, economic experts are convinced West Germany will get through 1958 without running into a serious slump.

This is the consensus of government, industrial and labor authorities, as well as foreign economic analysts in this capital.

In the last decade, the West Germany economy has been soaring. Last year's gross national product was the equivalent of about 35 billion dollars, or 11 billion above the figure five years before.

But the "economic miracle"—as the Germans call their enormous postwar success—has just about run its course.

Ludwig Erhard, the nation's economic czar, pronounced the end of the miracle last week. He warned Germans to begin tightening their belts for a spell of austerity.

He even went so far as to suggest that the workers quit worrying about reducing the work week from 45 to 44 hours, and think instead of working an extra hour a week.

At just about the same time, however, Erhard was telling a group of business leaders in Cologne that the outlook for 1958 is indeed bright.

And the reason for these contradictory statements, Western informants say, is psychological.

To business Erhard says: Don't be afraid. Go ahead and invest. There are plenty of profits in sight. But make sure to keep prices down for fear of a possible inflation.

To labor he says: Things are getting tough. Hold off those wage and hour demands, which might lead to inflation.

Erhard has managed to hold down the inflationary spiral in West Germany while prices and wages skyrocketed in other countries.

One reason has been that up to now Bonn has spent only negligible amounts on defense while its Atlantic partners have been shelling out back breaking amounts for defense.

But the spiral has been moving upward in recent months. Prices of coal, steel, bread and other basic items have gone up, some as much as 10 per cent. West

Cop In Hot Seat

TORONTO, Jan. 30 (AP)—Motorcycle policeman Walter Harkness found himself in the hot seat. His cycle caught fire under him. He stopped at a police call box and summoned firemen. They extinguished the blaze. A gas leak was blamed. Damage was estimated at $100. Harkness, with pants singed, walked back to his station.

Germany's biggest trade union, the metal workers, has won a 6 per cent wage increase and an hour reduction of the working week effective next year. Unemployment, heretofore negligible, rose sharply at the end of 1957 to 1,212,866, the highest December total since 1954.

Theodor Blank, the West German labor minister, says the chief reason for rising prices is higher wages, which rose 11 per cent last year. The living cost index advanced 3.4 per cent. Since 1950, Blank said, wages rose 59 per cent while productivity rose only 35 per cent, and thus the consumer must pay the difference.

But trade unions say higher wages must not be an excuse for price increases. They insist wage boosts should be paid from profits. Industrial production, however, continues high — 2½ half times its 1936 level, and the steel industry turned out a record 2½ million tons last year.

But ahead lie big increases in defense spending and increased outlays for social benefits. And although there is plenty of cash reserve in foreign currencies, the government is not well heeled enough to meet current expenses. Experts predict a 1958 budget deficit.

Shifting back and forth from confidence to alarm, Erhard evidently hopes to head off inflation and at the same time keep the West German industrial machine humming.

Girard And His Japanese Wife Find Beginning Of Ordinary Life In U.S.

By HARVEY BREUSCHER

OTTAWA, Ill., Jan. 30 (P)—In a five-room house at the end of a quiet street, William S. Girard and his Japanese bride have found the beginning of an ordinary life in America.

For her the surroundings still are somewhat strange and a bit frightening. For him it is a life filled with problems — some of them unforeseen.

To most of Ottawa's 20,000 other citizens, however, Girard already has become just an ex-soldier who with a foreign wife moved into his brother's house on the north edge of town.

"That's all we want to be known as," the 22-year-old Girard told a visiting newsman. "We just want to be left alone. The neighbors have been good about that. Now I wish everybody else would just forget us too."

A year has passed since the fateful day that Girard was catapulted into the international spotlight.

Girard, then an Army specialist, was tried by a Japanese court for the Jan. 30, 1957, slaying of Mrs. Naki Sakai, a brass picker who strayed into a U.S. Army gunnery range near Tokyo hunting empty shell casings.

Girard was on guard duty at the range. When the brass scavengers moved toward his post, Girard fired an empty shell casing from his grenade launcher. Girard said the shot was intended to warn them off the range.

The casing struck Mrs. Sakai and killed her.

A dispute arose as to who should try Girard—the Army or a Japanese civil court. Eventually the case reached the U. S. Supreme Court which ruled Japan had jurisdiction under a status-of-forces treaty with the United States.

Japan's Maebashi District Court convicted him on a charge similar to manslaughter and gave him a three-year suspended sentence.

What Girard still feels is the most severe blow dealt him came when the Army mustered him out at Fort Sheridan, Ill., on Dec. 18. A source close to the family said he received a less than honorable discharge. Girard would neither confirm or deny this.

The same day he and his wife, accompanied by his older brother, Louis, and his wife returned to Ottawa by automobile. They arrived around midnight. No one was waiting.

Next day Girard saw his widowed mother at a relative's home in Streator, Ill., some 15 miles distant.

His wife, Haru (Candy), speaks little English and only on rare occasions does she step out of the house alone.

A neighborhood grocer said she came into his store once to buy a half-dozen oranges. She counted out the correct change, the grocer said, then with a smile and a "thank you" she left as quietly as she had entered.

During an interview in Louis' home, Candy sat in the dining room while the rest of the household occupied the front room. The Louis Girards have two children and a pet Pekingese.

She smiled when her husband said he didn't have much time to give for her English lessons "but she picks it up pretty well."

Girard spent more than a month job-hunting.

Last week he finally found employment at the J. E. Porter Co., a local manufacturer. He said he was hired as a punch press operator "but I do six or seven different things around the place."

Television occupies most of the weekday evenings. "We don't go to taverns or shows and we've only gone downtown a couple of times since I got back."

The immediate aim of Girard and his wife is finding a place of their own.

He said the move, when it comes, won't take him and his wife out of Ottawa. "We like it here. It's a good town and at least nobody bothers us. That other business is over now, all over, and I'm not going to say any more about it. We want to live our lives like everybody else."

Bogart Unaware He Had Cancer Year Before His Death

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 30 (P)—Actor Humphrey Bogart apparently was unaware that he had cancer 11 months before his death, it was reported in a Superior Court estate hearing today.

This was brought out during a court-approved settlement of a $90,000 life insurance policy for $40,000. Bogart died of cancer of the esophagus Jan. 14, 1957.

The Manufacturers Life Insurance Co. said Bogart signed a medical certificate at the time the policy was issued, Feb. 2, 1956, attesting that he had not been treated for cancer.

The beneficiary, Mapleton Productions, Inc., an independent film-producing company, pointed out that although Bogart may have had the disease at the time the policy was issued, he was not aware of it.

Mapleton productions were owned by Bogart, his wife, actress Lauren Bacall, and A. Morgan Maree Jr.

Reds To Talk With "Czar"

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (P)—The Russian Communists will be talking with a czar here pretty soon—movie czar Eric Johnston.

Johnston's selection to represent Hollywood in working out a swap of about 30 U.S. and Soviet films was announced today by the State Department.

The announcement came after Turner Shelton, U.S. Information Agency movie specialist, conferred at the Soviet Embassy with the acting ambassador, Sergei Striganov.

Shelton, it was learned, proposed a time and place for a meeting between Johnston and a representative of Sovexportfilm, speaking for the Russian moviemakers. Striganov said he would check with Moscow to see if this was acceptable.

It was understood the meeting, to settle on the sales price and showing dates, is to be held within a month, probably in Washington. This marked the first move to start carrying out the wide-ranging agreement in principle signed Monday to step up U.S.-Soviet contacts. The two-year agreement contemplates exchanging movies, radio-TV broadcasts, and some 500 scientists, athletes, students, dancers, movie stars and so on.

N.C. Road Gang Fugitive Fights Extradition

BALTIMORE, Jan. 30 (AP)—A fugitive from a North Carolina road gang who made a new life for himself the past 12 years in Maryland, said today he will fight extradition to North Carolina.

The Maryland woman he married six years ago didn't find out until last night that her husband was a fugitive.

Baltimore County police are holding 43-year-old Jessie Griffin as a fugitive from a North Carolina manslaughter sentence.

A routine fingerprint check led to his arrest on the fugitive charge.

Griffin contends he was sentenced to 15-to-20 years for a crime he didn't commit.

He also told a newsman he had no part in planning the break from a road gang near Durham Feb. 4, 1946 but fled after he saw others make their escape by saving through window bars.

Detectives said Griffin has been living at nearby Parkville under the name of William David Stone. He has been working as a carpenter for a contracting firm.

Griffin said he was convicted of driving a car which struck and killed two girls near his home town of Washington, N. C. in 1944 on U. S. 17.

But he claimed today he was not driving but was asleep on a seat after taking drugs to relieve arthritic pains in his legs.

He said two other men had been with him in the car but both fled after the accident.

The first realization he had that the two girls had been killed, he said, came when State Police him from sleep and charged him with their deaths.

A too-long telephone call and a routine fingerprint check led to the ending of his 12 years of freedom.

Six years ago, Griffin told police, he married a Baltimore widow with four children. Last Friday night Griffin and his wife got into an argument because one of the teen-aged daughters talked too long on the phone with a boy.

Griffin was picked up on an assault and disorderly conduct charge and police made a routine fingerprint check with the FBI.

William Henry Harrison was the first U. S. President to arrive in Washington for inauguration by train.

Cockeysville Elementary School Has "Space Day"

COCKEYSVILLE, Md., Jan. 30 (AP)—Rockets, missiles, satellites and space stations filled the air today and 617 elementary school youngsters had their eyes and ears tuned to space.

This was "Space Day" at Cockeysville Elementary School and the theme of the schoolwide climax to a month's study was "Out of This World."

"Suppose you jumped up from the earth," 8-year-old Stephen Cupit said in explaining gravity to the student body. "Without gravity, you wouldn't come down. You'd have to turn yourself upside down to come down."

All classes, from the first grade through the sixth, took part in the program, the first in the history of the Baltimore County school system.

The idea was Principal L. Raymond Townsend's. He planned it so that every class was studying some phase of space at the same time.

The school's library supplied books on each grade level. The youngsters started Jan. 1 to gather news stories and magazine articles, models and pictures.

Bill To Outlaw Gambling Piers, Casino Planned

BALTIMORE, Jan. 30 (AP)—A bill to outlaw a plush floating casino and the Maryland-licensed gambling piers which jut into the Potomac River from the Virginia shore, will be introduced in the Legislature next week.

A spokesman for the governor's office said today the attorney general is working out the language and details of the measure which would be statewide in scope.

It would ban all gambling on the Potomac and other navigable waters of Maryland, except in places which can be reached by foot from the Maryland shore.

It results from a controversy over Potomac River gambling and liquor sales which began last spring with issuance by Charles County authorities of a liquor license for a floating casino to be tied to the Virginia shore.

Sale of liquor by the drink and gambling have long been illegal in Virginia, but Virginia operators of gambling and drinking establishments located on piers jutting into the Maryland-owned Potomac, have obtained licenses from authorities in Charles County, across the river in Maryland.

Chief targets of the bill being prepared would be the Colonial Beach, Va. resort area which is clustered with such establishments.

After Virginians, including then Gov. Thomas Stanley protested, Maryland's Gov. McKeldin asked Charles County commissioners to rescind the license. He said Maryland's flouting the laws of a neighboring state made for bad relations.

When Charles County officials declined to honor his request, the governor warned that preventive legislation might result.

He then asked the Legislative Council to study the problem and it was discussed by legislative advisory groups of both states who met together last fall.

But Maryland's council said a complete remedy lies within the discretion of the Virginia General Assembly. The Maryland lawmakers made no recommendation for remedial legislation in this state.

Maryland's Legislature is solidly controlled by Democrats who would have the final say on Republican Gov. McKeldin's proposed Potomac River gambling ban.

Execution Date Set For Slayer

BALTIMORE, Jan. 30 (AP)—John Wesley Elliott today was ordered executed in the State Penitentiary gas chamber the week of March 17.

Circuit Judges John T. Tucker and James K. Cullen set the date for the 47-year-old Negro convicted last March of killing the intended husband of his former girl friend.

Elliott was convicted by the judges without a jury for the Sept. 12, 1956, shotgun slaying of Lindsay Calhoun. Calhoun was hit in the face with a shotgun blast from a doorway where Elliott was waiting for him.

The death sentence was imposed after the Baltimore Supreme Bench refused a new trial. The Maryland Court of Appeals also declined a second trial.

McKeldin Lists Building Program Achievements

BALTIMORE, Jan. 30 (AP)—Gov. McKeldin talked proudly today about the construction of roads, bridges and buildings during his administration.

McKeldin told members of the Maryland Assn. of Engineers that their profession was indispensable in the state's highway modernization and capital improvements programs.

The governor said Maryland's roads plan is "a model for other states" and the building program has brought the state "to the front in the fields of hospitalization and higher education."

McKeldin recalled his appointment of a commission to study the state highway system shortly after his inauguration in 1951. This 18-month study produced a record of primary and secondary

Judge Harris To Sentence Earsom Today

J. E. Earsom, 49-year-old local man convicted on Monday by a jury in Allegany County Circuit Court on a charge of obstructing justice will be sentenced today at 10 a. m. by Judge Morgan C. Harris.

Earsom was convicted of obstructing justice by corruptly influencing two girls to leave Allegany County so that they would not be able to testify before the October grand jury.

The girls were Doris Ralston, 26, and Betty Lou Pryor, 19, both of this city. They had been summoned as witnesses in the two charges of sale of whisky to minors filed against the license holders of the Cadillac Lounge Inc. and Al's Chateau.

The girls testified they were driven by Earsom to Baltimore on October 7, the day before they were to have appeared before the grand jury.

Det. Joseph H. Stitzer, suspended police officer, was found not guilty this week on a charge of obstructing justice in connection with the same case.

Judge Harris also will sentence James Porter of Mt. Savage Road who was found guilty earlier this week on a morals charge.

Also scheduled to be sentenced this morning is Grover Cleveland Houck, 42, of McConnellsburg, Pa., who pleaded guilty January 14 to two charges of larceny and receiving stolen goods. He was accused of having stolen about $430 from automobiles in the vicinity of Corrikanville while working for a quarry there last September 7. He was arrested early this month.

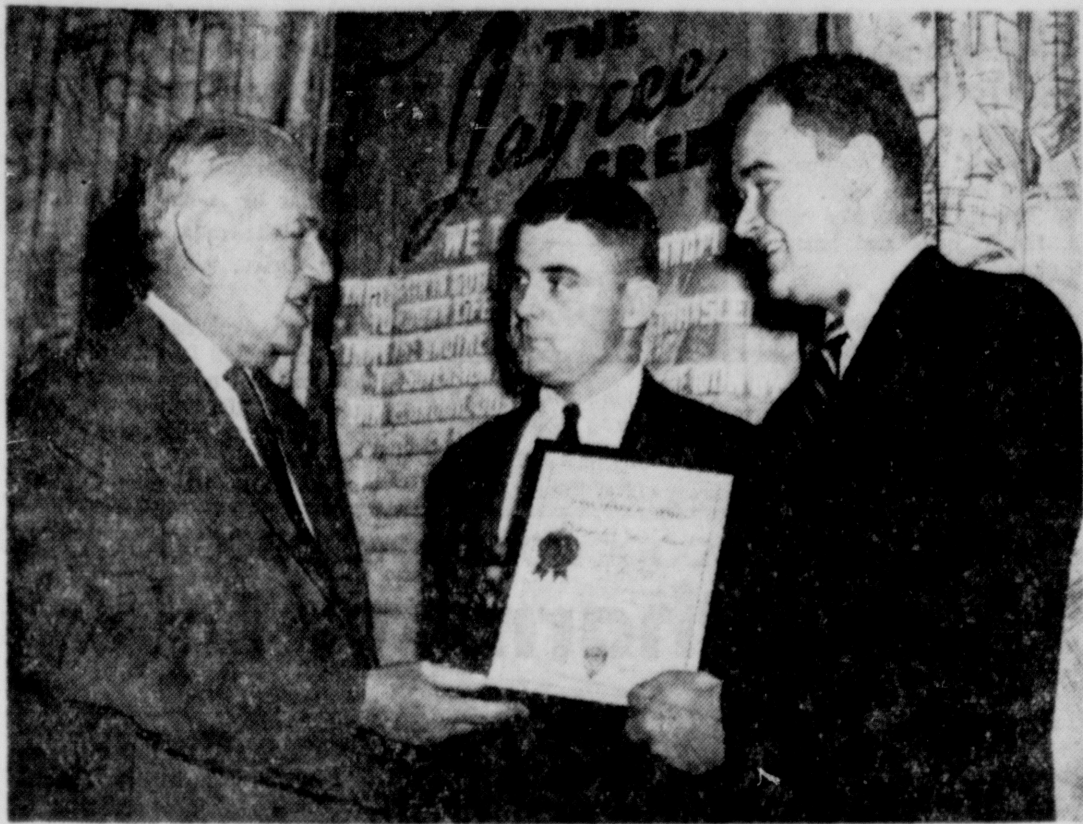

Inquiry Class Starts

The first in a series of inquiry classes will be held today at 8 p. m. in the rectory of St. Patrick's Catholic Church, according to Right Rev. Msgr. J. Lawrence Kilkenny, pastor.

The course for converts will consist of 16 classes, Msgr. Kilkenny said, with the lessons being held on Tuesdays and Fridays from 8 to 9 p. m. The course will be completed on the week before Easter, the pastor said.

Rev. John U. Lyness, assistant pastor, will conduct the first half of the course, and Rev. Arthur W. Boush, assistant pastor, the remaining lessons.

Previous inquiry classes have been well attended, Msgr. Kilkenny said, and persons interested can either call the rectory or appear at the first class this evening.

JAYCEES HONOR BEALL—The first Distinguished Service Award of the Washington Junior Chamber of Commerce is presented to Senator J. Glenn Beall (R-Md.), left by Compton S. Jones, chairman of the Jaycees' "Direct Vote Committee," center, and Richard C. Vierbuchen, president of the Washington group. The award was given to Senator Beall in recognition of his efforts to obtain suffrage for the voteless residents of the District of Columbia. During this year, a campaign to get the vote for D. C. citizens will be conducted as a project of the national Junior Chamber. Senator Beall has introduced a measure calling for a Constitutional amendment to give residents the vote for President and Vice President.

Greitzner Will Probated Here

The will of Claude W. Greitzner, who owned considerable property in Westernport at the time of his death January 11, has been probated in Allegany County Orphans Court.

Horace P. Whitworth Jr., Westernport attorney, qualified as executor of the estate under a $50,000 bond.

Mr. Greitzner, who was 86 and resided at 414 Hammond Street, left $1,000 to the Vestry of St. James Episcopal Church for two memorial windows and other needs of the parish to which he belonged and $500 to the Burlington (W. Va.) Methodist Children's Home.

There also were cash bequests to three nephews and a niece and to a brother, Charles Greitzner of Baltimore. Mr. Greitzner willed his property on the east side of Hammond Street in Westernport to his housekeeper, Margaret Greene.

Mr. Greitzner also gave the Mayor and Council of Westernport the right to buy certain property he owned on the west side of the C&P Railroad tracks for $3,500 within six months. A similar offer was made to Victory Post of the American Legion on the east side of the tracks.

If neither the Westernport officials nor the Legion post wants to buy the lots, they are to go to his brother, John Greitzner of Clarksburg, W. Va., who is left the rest of his estate.

Another will probated was that of Mrs. Cora E. Broadstock, who died January 23 at the age of 70. She had lived at 324 Arch Street. John J. Hafer, a friend, qualified as executor of her estate under a $500 bond. Her chief beneficiary was Mrs. Charles Bowden, 40 Browning Street, who had extended kindnesses to her and her grandson, Thomas Broadstock.

The will of Benjamin Wall Kalbaugh, of Hilltop, Westernport, who died November 2 at the age of 80, also was probated yesterday. His son, Harry T. Kalbaugh, Westernport, qualified as executor under a $1,000 bond. His Hilltop property was left to his wife, Lucy, who also gets a one-third share of property at 209 Vine Street, Westernport. Harry T. Kalbaugh is left the other two-thirds of the Vine Street property.

County To Get Chance To Increase Blood Donations

Allegany County residents will have an opportunity to increase the county's standing in the 30-chapter Johnstown Regional Red Cross Blood Center when the bloodmobile makes two county visits next week.

On Monday, the mobile unit will be at the Eagles Home here, and on the following day the unit will process blood from residents of the Westernport area. Quota for each visit will be 150 pints, and the unit will be in operation from noon to 6 p. m. each day.

Records at the Johnstown center show Allegany County ranked fifth in percentage of collections for the first half of the 1957-58 fiscal year.

In the six-month period, collections totaled 1,358 pints of blood, compared to a half-year quota of 1,200 pints. The amount was collected during 11 visits for an average of 123.5 pints per visit.

The county ranked fourth in the total number of pints contributed by the 30 affiliated chapters of the Johnstown Center.

Center officials pointed out that the centers exceeding the Allegany County total of 1,358 pints were where the bloodmobile made more visits than the 11 stops in this county. None of the top productive centers ranked as high in percentage as Allegany County, it was noted.

The county averaged the 123.5 pints per visit during the first half of the fiscal year and ranked sixth in the average amount contributed by the 30 affiliated chapters.

Again, Johnstown spokesmen pointed out, the leading chapters were where far fewer visits were made and where the amount contributed was much less than that of the county. In December, five persons each blood, and four qualified for the contributed their eighth pint of Two Gallon Club.

On The Line

by Bob Considine

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—(INS)—So many good friends of mine have died recently that I keep thinking of something Runyon used to say in the muted little bullsessions that formed around him on the street outside the church or the funeral parlor just after a service was over.

"They're hitting all around us," he'd say. "His listeners would nod agreement, and wonder—like survivors of a battle—why the shell had landed just there instead of, say, over here."

Cas Adams, Ann Gillis, Andy Geer, Louie Ruppel, Bob Levitt... some others.

Wonderful, hearty, courageous, intelligent, worthwhile people, all gone 25 and more years before their allotted Biblical and actual span. It seems a terrible waste of talent.

Cas was a most invariably good-natured man. The first time I ever met him he had a fainting spell in Mike Jacobs' office in the old Hippodrome. I was alarmed, but Joe Jacobs and a few others who knew him better at the time said, "Forget it, he'll be okay." We went on drinking a bottle of champagne Mike had popped.

"Here we are drinking that Tiffany," Joe said contentedly, bubbles tickling his nose. Cas sat up after a time and cheerfully joined us. . . . He was still cheerful the last time I saw him, though engaged in the Herculean task of trying to train a new pa of his brain to assume the burden of re-teaching him how to walk, after his stroke.

Ann taught me how to talk on radio. I was one of her lesser products. As a very young lady she had a producer's hand in F.D.R.'s Fireside Chats. She helped shape or polish the air careers of John Daly, Ed Murrow, H. V. Kaltenborn, Bob Trotter, John Cameron Swayze, Walter Kiernan, Morgan Beatty, George Gobel and many others.

Nobody in that trade knew politics and its people as well as Ann Gillis Slocum, nor had more poise under pressure, more patience under stress. Ann was the only person, man or woman, I've ever met who never—in my hearing at least—complained about his or her health. And, bless her, she had so little of it. So darned little.

Andy was all muscles, except his head. He must have had muscles around his heart. He was one of those overage destroyers that only the U. S. Marine Corps seems able to develop properly, so naturally he wound up in combat in Korea.

He wrote tenderly and informatively of the Corps and was just getting squared away with bigger things in books, movies and TV when he woke up one morning with Big Casino. The doctor had to tell him he was a terminal case.

Andy got his things in order like the night before a battle. One of the first things he did—and it was curiously fitting—was to resign from his favorite club, the Bohemian, Of San Francisco, of course. The Bohemian Club has a long waiting list. A member has to die before a new one can enter. Resignations are virtually unheard of. Andy just wanted the fellow who had been waiting to join enter a little earlier than expected.

Louie invented atomic fission before the scientists. He was born with it. Wherever he went in newspapers, magazines, radio and TV he left his explosive imprint. He could follow his way through a wall, once he knew he was right. Nothing scared him in war (another overage Marine destroyer) or peace, politics, or the fighting of crime.

Louie had a hide a cleaver couldn't nick, but at heart he was the softest touch in town. Once he condemned a series of mine on hoodlums as rot, ("Those things stink unless they put the bums in jail"), and five minutes later bought a piece of mine that had been turned down by half a dozen magazines. It was a short-short about Christ taking a vacation in Palm Beach during Christmas time and finding it impossible to get a room in a restricted hotel. Louie gave it the title, "Well, a little more time."

As for Bob, he was such a gifted guy. When he'd visit his famous ex-wife and their children, she'd say, "The whole house lighted up." He helped get this column started when nobody much wanted it. I pray that he had time to explain. I'm sure he could.

Rev. Campbell said the board of trustees headed by Herbert Erickson, was responsible for the purchase of the piano. Members and friends of the congregation also donated toward the purchase of the piano.

Other board members are Mrs. Helen Whitacre, Miss Mabel England and Mrs. Lottie Richards. Doctor Fulk who was elected conference superintendent in 1946 and is now serving his third four-year term, graduated from Bridgewater (Va.) College and the United Seminary of Dayton, Ohio.

The local church became a station at the annual conference held in September 1957 at the Calvary EUB Church in Keyser. In preceding years the church shared a minister with the Bethel EUB Church, Third and Seymour streets.

Three Youths Get Suspended Terms

Two local youths were found guilty contributing to the delinquency of a 16-year-old boy yesterday in Juvenile Court.

Juvenile Magistrate Fred H. Anderson also found the 16-year-old boy guilty of being a delinquent minor.

Magistrate Anderson sentenced the two youths to six months each in the Maryland House of Correction, fined them $25 each and ordered they to make restitution of $8.25 each to the owner of Powers Service Station. He suspended the jail sentences.

The trio was arrested Monday night in connection with a breaking and entering at the Henderson Avenue service station. Approximately $25 in cash was taken, police said.

The local magistrate sentenced the 16-year-old boy to the Maryland Training School for Boys, and then suspended the sentence and placed him on parole for one year. He was also ordered to make restitution.

Church Plans Organ, Piano Dedication

On Sunday morning, February 9, a new electronic organ and piano will be dedicated during a program at Calvary Evangelical United Brethren Church, Mary Street.

Guest speaker will be Rev. Floyd L. Fulk, B.D., D.D., superintendent of the Virginia Conference of the EUB Church. Rev. Raymond Campbell, pastor of the local church since September 1956, said special music and selections by the mixed choir will be included on the program, which will begin at 11 a. m.

The Mizpah Sunday School Class was responsible for the purchase of the organ. Contributions were also received from members of the congregation. Mrs. Lottie Richards is the class teacher.

Rev. Campbell said the board of trustees headed by Herbert Erickson, was responsible for the purchase of the piano. Members and friends of the congregation also donated toward the purchase of the piano.

Other board members are Mrs. Helen Whitacre, Miss Mabel England and Mrs. Lottie Richards. Doctor Fulk who was elected conference superintendent in 1946 and is now serving his third four-year term, graduated from Bridgewater (Va.) College and the United Seminary of Dayton, Ohio.

Polio March Returns Are Incomplete

Returns in the Mothers March on Polio are "spotty," according to Mrs. Elizabeth Nave, chairman of the Allegany County appeal, who said plans are being formulated for the solicitation to be continued.

The only complete report to be added to Wednesday's return was $24.34, credited to the Ridgedale Playground area. Mrs. Nave said Midland reported having collected $70 in the smaller communities in that region, with the Midland collections yet to be tabulated. The final report is expected to exceed the $181.36 collected last year, Mrs. Nave stated.

The Mothers March has yet to be held in a number of county communities, it was explained, and Mrs. Nave and Mrs. Dorothy Daychek, co-chairman, are lining up committees for solicitations in Mt. Savage, Oldtown and the Baltimore Pike areas. Workers are also needed for Cresaptown, Westernport and Luke.

Phone calls have been made to the Allegany County League for Crippled Children, headquarters for the March of Dimes, by persons in those areas who wish to make contributions, Mrs. Nave said.

Similar calls have been made by local residents, she continued, who live on streets where no collection was conducted. A number of West Side streets are expected to be canvassed this evening, although plans have not been completed, the chairman said.

Wednesday's incomplete returns totaled $2,000, compared to $3,000 collected in the city last year.

Captain Sliviak pointed out that in training for the vacancies, a young man may enlist in the Army Reserve here and be required to spend only six months away from home for training.

House Democrats Say Additional Taxes Not Needed For West Virginia Roads

By HERB LITTLE

CHARLESTON, Jan. 30 — House Democrats said today it is their feeling "that no additional taxes for roads should be placed on the people of West Virginia at this time."

A prepared statement to that effect was given newsmen after a caucus of the House Democratic majority late this afternoon.

While the statement expressed sentiment against voting any more taxes for roads at this session of the Legislature, it said, "there is considerable sentiment among members of the majority party that the Road Commission should receive earmarked funds for the purpose of employing additional engineers."

The caucus followed a session during which Road Commission officials told the House it will take 18 million dollars more than is in sight from present sources to carry out the highway program planned for this calendar year.

The figure is the difference between $110,957,000 which the commission says it will need this year, and total resources estimated at $92,957,000.

The figures were presented to the House by Col. George E. White Jr., administrative assistant to Road Commissioner Patrick C. Grane. The House sat as a committee of the whole for 90 minutes to question Grane.

White, Road Commission Controller Henry L. Browning III and District Engineer Cecil Bower of the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads about the state's highway program.

The estimate of $92,957,000 in total resources for highway purposes this year breaks down this way: A balance of $5,481,000 at the start of the year; expected income of $48,525,000 from tax sources; $10,000,000 from sale of road bonds, and $28,951,000 in federal aid.

Del. Terry (R-Berkeley) asked what the effect would be on the road program this year if the Legislature fails to vote any additional money.

Grane reiterated his previous statements that, in such a case, the Road Commission still will not let any federal aid allocations expire and be lost to the state. But he said that if the commission is limited to its present income, requirements for matching federal aid with state funds will leave little money for secondary roads or for special maintenance on primary roads.

White said the backlog of federal aid which the state has not taken up will be 71 million dollars at the end of this year.

There were moments of sharp partisan cross-fire when the Republican road commissioner was being questioned by the Democratic side.

Del. England (D-Wyoming) bore down hard with questions about an increase in the number of employees in the Road Commission accounting department since the Republicans took over from the Democrats last year.

England said there were 21 accounting employees under Democratic Road Commissioner Burl A. Sawyer and asked Grane for the January figure this year.

Grane tried in vain to give a comparison between last May and the end of last year, but each time was cut off by England who told Grane to "give the January figures or none."

Grane shot back, "I'm going to answer you whether you like it or not."

When the Republicans had a chance again on rebuttal, Del. Terry gave Grane his opening. The commissioner said there were 35 employees actually working in the accounting division last May, the month after Grane was appointed, and that there were 36 at the close of the year.

The statement issued by House Democrats after their caucus said: "Within the past few days, three different sets of figures, with discrepancies running as high as 19 million dollars, have been given to the members of the Legislature by the Road Commission. Furthermore, for the first time at this session, the Road Commission has furnished all members of the Legislature with a complete statement of estimated revenues and expenditures for 1958. It is too much to expect the Legislature, in the light of this fact and the discrepancies in the Road Commission's own figures, to embark on such an ambitious tax-raising program."

Gov. Underwood has proposed enactment of 37 million dollars a year in new and increased taxes for highway purposes.

Auxiliary Aids Miners Hospital

FROSTBURG — The Miners Hospital Auxiliary was thanked by James Banger, administrator, at their meeting this week in Fidelity Bank Building, for their donation of a bottle warmer to the pediatrics ward of the hospital.

A final report on the bake sale held recently gave the group $81. It was also reported that two isolettes and two croupettes donated by the auxiliary to the hospital have been in use now for several months.

The group was asked to have as many members of their organization take the Red Cross nursing course to be offered locally next month.

More volunteers were asked to aid in the sewing of hospital bandages and clothing.

The next meeting will be held in the Eagles Building. Following the business session refreshments were served.

W.Va. Democrats Block GOP State Income Tax Bill

Scholarship Measure Is Passed

CHARLESTON, Jan. 30 — The House emphatically voted down today an attempt to bring the Republican administration's income tax bill onto the floor.

Del. Clark (D-Mercer) made the motion to force the bill out of the Finance Committee, where it had been tabled. On the 67-29 vote, by which the motion was buried, only five Republican delegates voted to bring the bill out.

Gov. Underwood suggested the bill for a one per cent tax on gross personal incomes over $2,000 to raise 15 million dollars a year for schools. The bill was introduced with Min. Leader Seibert (R-Ohio) as sponsor, but he opposed Clark's motion today.

Seibert said he would support the bill if it were on the floor, but added that he always followed the practice of opposing motions to discharge committees from consideration of bills.

The Finance Committee sent a half-dozen other tax bills to the floor today, and Clark said, "I believe the income tax should be given equal consideration."

The five Republicans who voted to bring the bill onto the floor were Dels. Hodge Ours, Stevens, Taylor and Whetsell.

Also voting for Clark's motion were Democrats Belknap, Blue, Brelsy, Bower, Callaway, Clark, Dahill, Floyd, Fox, Frazer, Gilmore, Hammon, Hatcher, Kidd, Taylor and Whetsell.

The Senate held only a routine session lasting about five minutes, then adjourned until 2 p. m. tomorrow.

Mayor Michael Will Not Seek Re-Election

Serves Three Two-Year Terms

WESTERNPORT—Mayor Okey E. Michael, who is completing his third two-year term as head of the town government, announced at the regular council meeting Wednesday that he will not be a candidate for re-election at the biennial municipal election Tuesday, May 27.

The new filtration plant erected on Chestnut Street was accepted by the Mayor and Council during the business meeting. Before final action was taken town officials, Lee Haines, engineer of Glace and Glace of Harrisburg, Pa., and Harry Richards, inspector, visited the plant.

The final bill of the George Brothers Contracting Company, general contractors of the job, for $6,178.84 was ordered paid as well as a final bill to Glace and Glace for $434.62. The total of all costs amounted to $377,078.43.

Arnold G. Clark, local building contractor, conferred with council concerning the purchase of water to be resold by him to residents of Brophytown and Franklin. Some of the lines will have to be renewed and he plans to lay a four-inch line and put in water meters. The town would sell Clark the water used from the master meter.

Alvin Pence, water commissioner, warns that the reservoir on Westernport Hill is down seven feet. This is believed to be due to persons letting spigots run during cold weather.

Following the recommendation of Commissioner Pence, council decided to cancel the order for 25 water meters previously ordered from the Rockwell Manufacturing Company. The meters have not been received.

Ronald Grove requested that a street light be placed near his residence on McKinley Street in the vicinity of Boundary Alley. Mayor Michael advised him it would be done.

A letter from Horace P. Whitworth Sr. was read by Mrs. Katherine Dailey, town clerk, stating a portion of the will of the late Claude W. Greitzner gave the Town of Westernport the opportunity to buy a portion of land which adjoins the town garages on Front Street for $3,500. The town has six months to accept or reject the offer. No action was taken.

A January 29 letter from Harry Hackett, an extra police officer, stated that he was resigning.

23 TB Prisoners Move To Hopemont Within Month

CHARLESTON, Jan. 30 (AP)—Acting Public Institutions Commissioner Elizabeth V. Hallanan said today that removal of 23 tubercular prisoners from the State Penitentiary will be accomplished by March 1.

She added that the transfer is expected to correct a long-existing undesirable situation at the prison.

Methodists To Build Hospital At Clarksburg

CLARKSBURG, Jan. 30 (AP)—Plans for a new 110-bed hospital for Clarksburg to be owned and operated by the Methodist Church were outlined here today.

The announcement from the Rev. John E. Hanifan of Clarksburg said that half the $3,300,000 cost is expected to be provided by the federal government under the Hill-Burton Act.

A campaign will be started immediately to raise one million dollars of the construction cost through public subscription, the minister said.

Mr. Hanifan is pastor of Clarksburg's First Methodist Church and vice president of Union Hospital Corp.

Twilight Of Dictators In Latin America

Four South American dictators have fallen in four years. South America is seeing, at least briefly, a twilight of the dictators. Venezuela, Peru, Colombia and Argentina have shaken off the shackles of despotism.

Four down, three—in Cuba, Paraguay and the Dominican Republic—to go.

In Venezuela, a beginning toward restoration of freedom has been made. Political prisoners have been released, except for scores who were murdered in their cells by the secret police before Jimenez Perez was driven from power by an enraged populace.

The new junta in Venezuela has announced it is abolishing press censorship and intends, as soon as possible, to hold free elections and restore political democracy. Perez has been given asylum by another dictator, Trujillo of the Dominican Republic. Peron, the ousted dictator of Argentina, who was engaged in plots against his own country from a base in Venezuela hid in the Dominican embassy in Caracas while assaying his chances of getting to Dominica.

It is obvious that Trujillo now is the No. 1 dictator of South America, and it will be interesting to see how much of a future he has, and whether he succeeds in saving his neck by fleeing when his number comes up.

Promises such as those made by the new junta in Venezuela are not always kept, but the head of the junta, Wolfgang Larrazabal, is a pro-American moderate and a political independent with a reputation for believing in justice and democracy. All friends of representative government will wish him well.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Sherm's Ordeal

In this era of Sputniks and rockets and missiles and such, the ordeals of a saloon manager may not be very significant, but the fact is that what happens to one man could happen to another.

Sherman Billingsley has managed to turn a saloon into a national institution. The Stork Club is a rendezvous for distinguished men and beautiful women and is widely known and folks go there as much to be seen among their peers as to eat and drink.

Billingsley has had a picket line around his institution, although the place has been in continuous operation and just as well attended as usual. Most of the customers of such a place do not worry too much about pickets, anyhow. However the matter went to the New York State Labor Relations Board on a charge that the Stork Club engaged in unfair labor practices.

Sherman Billingsley hired Roy Cohn as his lawyer and all of a sudden it was discovered that this national institution engaged in interstate commerce, whereupon the various sauce cooks, fry cooks and types of washers found themselves in the wrong jurisdiction and out of luck. Meanwhile, the place is fuller than ever, it now having been proved that the Stork Club, like a railroad, gets its turkeys from Colorado, Utah and Washington, its crab meat from Missouri, its lobsters from Maine, its crab meat from Florida and also stuff from China, Italy and Spain.

One item in Billingsley's evidence that fascinated me was that he carries approximately 3,500 charge accounts of which 1,255 were billed to persons in 40 states and Canada. The eight missing states are not indicated, but it just goes to show how national a New York restaurant can become.

So, the Trial Examiner for the New York State Labor Relations Board, Bernard M. Fineson, found that the Stork Club is engaged in interstate commerce because it buys what it uses wherever it can find it and bills its customers throughout the country and Canada too. Therefore, the unions which have been picketing the place since January 1957 and not hurting business, have to start all over again with the National Labor Relations Board.

However, as usual, they are resorting to political pressure, dropping the names of Governor Harriman, Industrial Commissioner Isidor Lubin and Mayor Wagner, none of whom will add a whit to their political popularity by encouraging a union to disturb the streets, for that is all that their interference means.

Lots of folks who go to such places as the Stork Club hand out tips amounting to more than the tabs in most places. So the customer pays anyhow and is glad to. That is why he goes to eat ham and eggs in the Stork Club instead of the Automat and the waiters know it. Maybe the sauce cooks should be tipped, too?

Billingsley tells me that he got a telegram from more than a hundred employees congratulating him on his success. As long as customers keep coming and the place fills up, nobody really is sore but the leaders of the unions involved who got themselves out on a legalistic limb.

The year 1958 may be a tough one for all restaurants, hotels, saloons and similar places because the income tax collectors plan to get very tough about expense accounts, demanding to know such details as is usually withheld from official documents. Is it exactly a legitimate expense to entertain the boss' wife when he is out of town? It may not only be a legitimate expense but a duty second to none, for how else can a rising young executive win his way up the ladder of life?

Also, the income tax collector who subsists on frankfurters and beans on the low salary paid to him for such work may wonder why so many high-minded executives eat so much caviar. Is it to encourage the cultural interchange between our land and the unfortunate who dwell in the shadow of the Kremlin? And so much vodka, too? And even champagne! It is all to encourage cultural exchange and intercourse and the stimulation of foreign trade with our generous allies. Also to improve our tastes so that we appreciate a chateaubriand instead of just corn beef and cabbage in the Irish or kosher variety.

UAW, Auto Companies Switch On Profit Sharing

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Both Walter P. Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers Union, and the heads of the automobile companies today seem to be on the wrong side of the dispute about profit-sharing plans for the employees.

Not so long ago Mr. Reuther's union was very strongly opposed to all profit-sharing plans, while employers in various big companies were sponsoring the idea.

"Profit-sharing," said the monthly bulletin of the UAW's research department a few years ago, "is a step backward. It brings another uncertainty into the worker's life. It makes it impossible for him to depend on the money he hopes to get, and on which his family is planning for the things it wants and needs. Management people know this is true."

"Nevertheless, some employers who are for profit-sharing instead of a wage increase, say frankly that they want to make capitalists out of the workers. The idea has a kind of smell of money about it that attracts some people. But workers who have tried to be capitalists in this way have found that the idea is strictly phony."

"To hear management people tell it, when they want to put over profit-sharing, their profits depend entirely on how much the individual worker is willing to sweat."

"On what, then, do the profits depend? Profits depend, first of all, on how much the company can sell, and then they depend on the price the company gets for its product. The worker has nothing to do with either of these parts of the job management must work out in order to make money."

Yet this very week Mr. Reuther, testifying before the Senate's Anti-Monopoly Subcommittee, was arguing that unions should have a big say in price-making. He wants a share of the profits to be rebated to consumers, and urges a government agency to hold hearings and, in effect, regulate prices.

The UAW bulletin quoted above goes on to stress the fact that profit-making is really a management function:

"A wrong decision on how much inventory should be carried by the firm may wipe out profits, or a large share of them, no matter how hard the worker has worked in the shop. Mistakes in buying materials, poor engineering of the product, or in picking the sales manager—these are only some of the factors that go into determining how much profit there will be. These are decisions made by management. Under profit-sharing, the workers pay the cost of a bad decision, even though they have no control over how the decision is made...."

"There is another reason why employers want flexibility. It makes it possible for them to compete for business, and take the competition out of the workers' pay instead of out of their own profits. If business falls off, and management has to scramble for orders, the company with the lowest price gets the business. The profit-sharing company can cut prices — by giving away the workers' share of the profits of the business. It means competition by matching one group of underpaid workers against another, and forcing each group into lower and lower pay. That's flexibility...."

"Besides the fact that America can't depend on profit-sharing for purchasing power when 'disinflation' begins, workers have a lot of personal reasons for being against profit-sharing plans. Most of them come out of the simple fact that profit-sharing just doesn't give the worker a steady income.

"The uncertainties in the income of the average worker today are very great. Layoffs, short work weeks, seasonal and other shutdowns — all of these make it hard enough to plan family living. Labor wants greater security and dependability; therefore unions fight for call-in pay, for a guaranteed work week, for guaranteed annual wages...."

"But union men who have seen the problem from the point of view of the whole union have been against profit-sharing since way back when...."

"Since the days of Gompers both AFL and CIO leaders have consistently argued for a square deal in the pay envelope without the nightmare of bonuses, accounting reports, trick computations and speedups that come with the dream of a split of the company's profits...."

"That is the UAW position and one for which the union and its membership will continue to fight with everything at hand."

All this was published in April 1949, since which time surely the philosophy of modern business and the principles behind union demands have undergone no basic change.

Strangely enough, the UAW today is advocating profit-sharing plans and the employers are arguing against such a formula for workers generally. Maybe the employers should have accepted the idea "in principle" and laid down certain conditions, as, for instance, a requirement that workers go over to the side of management and help to build a system of competition instead of operating bargaining committees that seek to control wages and indirectly fix prices throughout an industry.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

America is usually ahead of its time like a night watchman in the twilight.

But we would still like to know if we were better off when we had important secrets to steal?

Whatever progress our enemies have made has been based on filched formulas and pilfered prognostics. We believe the only damage inflicted was the cracking of a few more pots.

There is plenty of chipped china in our official porcelain departments. Those birds are always on edge like a pop-up toaster.

Their main caper is to fan panics with their hats. They wouldn't build a play-pen without an escape hatch.

They are the Nervous Nellies of research, economics and commerce, they are the Twitching Terwilligers of politics and finance.

They whip up more fantastic shapes and irresponsible specifications than a glassblower with the hiccups.

We know it's always darkest before dawn. But the crackpots blew a fuse any time.

Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Boost Research

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

The chances of discovering a successful new remedy are said to be 1 in 300. These odds have not discouraged our pharmaceutical manufacturers who thrive on research in their endless pursuit of new drugs.

Ehrlich, the discoverer of the first successful medicine for syphilis, called his remedy "606" because it climaxed 605 unsuccessful attempts to find the right formula. We can be thankful that a few men have the perseverance and patience to follow through on experiments of this type. The end results cannot be measured in time or money.

But 1 in 300 is a conservative figure. Of 5,000 pain killers produced, only eight are in common use. The first sulfa drug was followed by 5,000 substitutes and only a few proved valuable.

Three or four of the 14,000 anti-malarial compounds are considered satisfactory. The odds were 1 in 100,000 when it came to the development of a broad spectrum antibiotic. The mold for this product comes from soil and the drug is active against a wide variety of micro-organisms.

Fame and fortune are obtained by those who hit the jackpot. But it is likely to be shortlived. When a new agent is discovered after years of work, it is not unusual for someone else to come up with an improved version, a cheaper way to make it, or something better. To meet the competition, the pharmaceutical company sets to work to develop an even better preparation.

The average company spends approximately 21 per cent of their net profit in research. Many have 500 to 1,000 men and women working in their laboratories, all highly paid and using expensive equipment. The government is cooperating with many pharmaceutical companies in testing and screening new drugs.

There is no doubt that the drug industries get the breaks when they patent new products. True, they used their own research laboratories, personnel, and funds but in many instances the basic research was done in a laboratory of a medical school or hospital.

In addition, the efficiency and safety of the finished product was tested by physicians on the public. Those who help in this important aspect of the development of a new drug donate their part in it to the best interests of the people. They do not participate in the profits resulting from ownership of the patent.

where's your soup spoon?"

Advice to ladies by Franklin Jones: "If the shoe fits, wear it — and be different from all other women!"

By Bennett Cerf

Try And Stop Me

For eighteen years Mr. Lipschitz had lunched at the same restaurant, and his order never varied: a plate of borscht and a package of soda crackers. The waiter never bothered even to ask what Mr. Lipschitz wanted; he put the soup and crackers in front of him, and not a word was spoken by either.

Suddenly, one noon, Mr. Lipschitz called over the headwaiter and announced, "I want you to taste that borscht!" The headwaiter was nonplussed. "For years now we've served you that same borscht and never heard a peep out of you," he protested. "Nevertheless," insisted Mr. Lipschitz, "today I want you to taste it."

The headwaiter shrugged his shoulders, leaned over to taste the borscht, then said, "But

Originator Of Atomic Submarine Idea May Be Dropped From Navy

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—This week is the birthday of Rear Adm. Hyman Rickover, son of a Jewish immigrant from Poland, who pioneered the atomic submarine for the United States.

If you read the still secret Gaither Report, and if you study the tragic lag in American defense unearched by the Johnson Committee, you find that the one weapon in which the United States is definitely and categorically ahead of Russia is the atomic submarine.

The reason we are ahead is the persistent, sometimes plaintive Naval officer who button-holed superiors, bothered fellow officers, and kept hammering home the idea of an atomic submarine until at last it was built.

As recently disclosed in the Johnson hearings, Rickover's idea got such a lukewarm reception in the Navy, then still wedded to the battleship, that he was given as his office a ladies restroom abandoned by the WAVES after the wartime waves had subsided.

Furthermore, Rickover was almost eased out of the Navy five years ago. In 1952 this writer reported that a Naval Selection Board had passed him over. This meant that in one more year he would be retired. Here was a man who had put the U. S. Navy ahead of the entire world in the most important naval weapon of modern times. Yet he was to be dropped.

When I published this fact and called it to the attention of the then Secretary of the Navy, Bob Anderson, Anderson stepped in with what amounted to an order that Rickover was to be promoted. This was how he became a rear admiral.

Rickover May Be Out

Today, however, Rickover again faces the prospect that he will be dropped. Under naval rules, which are as rigid as the deck of a battleship, he has to be promoted again this year. If he is passed over, he is out of the Navy for good.

When Rickover's promotion came up in 1952, there were overtones that his religion was being held against him. Rickover was born in Poland, came to this country as a boy, worked to help his father who ran a tailor shop in the slums of Chicago.

When he got to Annapolis by appointment of the late Congressman Adolph Sabath, born in Czechoslovakia, Rickover was out of step. He was out of step on the parade grounds, out of step at the midshipmen's proms, and out of step at the gold braid cocktail parties which count with the Navy brass.

He was especially out of step when he began pounding on doors demanding that the Navy build an atomic submarine. Most of his superiors thought he was crazy. They didn't think an atomic submarine could be possible for another quarter-century.

But Rickover continued being out of step. A few higher-ups, however, notably Adm. Earle Mills, then head of the Bureau of Ships, and Adm. Chester Nimitz, supported him.

Rickover On Sidelines

One man with whom Rickover was at cross-purposes was Rear Adm. Albert Mumma, one of the Navy's best submariners and a highly competent officer.

Today, Mumma has been promoted to be head of the Bureau of Ships, which is in charge of building all ships, including atomic submarines. It was when Rickover was clashing with Mumma back in the days when an atomic submarine was merely a gleam in Rickover's eye, that he was given an office in the former ladies restroom.

Today the big naval race with Russia is to build an atomic submarine which can launch a missile from under water. Russia has an underwater submarine missile, the Comet. We have none. The United States is rushing work on the Skip Jack, an atomic sub which can launch the Polaris.

In this connection the following significant questions were asked of Rickover by Edwin Weisl, counsel for the Johnson Committee:

"We have heard considerable testimony concerning the Polaris missile. Are you familiar with that?"

"I know there is a Polaris missile, but I am not involved in that at all, sir," Rickover replied.

"Do you mean to say you were not involved in developing the nuclear submarine that would launch the Polaris?" Weisl persisted, referring to the Skip Jack.

"No sir," Rickover replied. "I am only involved in supplying components for that submarine. I have nothing to do with that, sir, the submarine itself."

"Does it not appear from the record that you are the most qualified man to develop a nuclear submarine?" asked Weisl.

"I think other people will have to answer that, sir."

"But you were not involved in that project?"

Weisl—"Do you know who is conducting the development of that submarine?"

Rickover—"I know in general. I know what I read in the newspapers and I know that certain work is going on."

Weisl—"Is your organization able to perform this work?"

Rickover—"Oh yes, my organization is capable of doing large scale development work."

Weisl—"You did supply the power plant for the other nuclear submarine?"

Rickover—"For the first of each type, I not only supplied the entire power plant, I was responsible for the design, development, and installation—every part of it."

Weisl—"Do you know of any reason why you were not put in charge of this important job?"

Rickover—"That is something you should ask other people—not me."

The Rickover of the Army, Col. John Nickerson, has now been relegated to Panama. Perhaps if we had more Nickersons and Rickovers we would not be behind Russia in satellites and missiles today.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

The rain slanted cold. It darkened one side of the big slabs of cheese called Radio City. Far below in the canyon, a doorman from "21" stood on the curb, an umbrella on one shoulder against the wind, whistling for a taxi. Inside "21", the barroom was dim and warm and friendly. Little airplanes hung from the ceiling. Yellow flames loomed upward from portable tables. People talked and chewed.

Max Blouet sat at a corner table. He was doing surgery on a pork chop. His blue eyes were on the chop and, from the side, he looked like a sandy-haired Fernandel. He talked much, and what he talked about was his lovely France during the German occupation.

Monsieur Blouet, who pronounces his name Bluyae, is a man of international charm. He is a hotel manager, but not, please, just a hotel manager. He is a boniface who not only remembers his friends of the upper crust, but who sits and bleeds quietly if they stay at another hotel.

One of his old customers in Paris is Dwight D. Eisenhower. Last year, Max was invited to the second inaugural. He flew from Paris with the rarest gift he could find — a bottle of Napoleon Brandy 1801. The President studied it and grinned. "Thank you," he said. "Thank you, my friend. It is so old, so rare, I don't suppose you would permit me to drink any of it."

"Of course not," said Max, setting the president down softly. "for drinking, I brought this," and he drew a bottle of new brandy from his valise. Monsieur Max is a man who can soothe a crepe suture, beam tenderly at a bride, bow low to the most unknown guest in the house, and recoil in horror over a maid who tiptoes into a boudoir at the wrong moment.

Now he starts a new life. He sat in "21" preparing for a cocktail party in his honor, before assuming his post as vice president and general manager of The Ambassadors in Chicago. This includes the Pump Room and points east and west. Monsieur Max is Ernie Byfield set to music; he is a breath of romance to an old lady; a sympathetic ear to a man away from home; a raconteur who permits his audience to outwit him; a friend who never forgets.

When the Germans check out," Max said to his night man, "wake me up." In the summer of 1944, Max received a phone call. "The Americans," said the night man, "are six days away. The Germans are checking out." Fretfully, he added: "Without paying the bill, of course."

The German generals left. The American generals came in. On the roof, a bellboy raised the French tricolor. Max stood on the sidewalk, shading his eyes to see it. He had waited too long. The eyes misted, and he had to turn away.

Farmers Need Assistance, U. Md. Professor Says

Farmers in the United States must continue to receive assistance from the public because they are unable through collective action to make their force felt in the way big business and big labor can.

That observation was made by Dr. George Max Beal, professor of agricultural economics at the University of Maryland, who spoke at yesterday's meeting of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club at Central YMCA.

Dr. Beal, who is a native of Utah, said farm price instability has been a major problem ever since about 1921 and has been a big issue in Congress at every session since 1933.

West Virginia Gas, Express Hearings Set

CHARLESTON, Jan. 30 (AP) — The Public Service Commission begins hearing next Wednesday of a new rate increase petition filed by Cumberland & Allegheny Gas Co., and affecting 16,541 West Virginia customers.

C & A wants new rates sufficient to add $667,390 to its annual revenue to offset increased gas purchase costs and higher labor and material expenditures.

The company serves a north-central West Virginia area which includes such communities as Buckhannon, Elkins, Keyser, Kingwood, Parsons and Piedmont.

It filed the proposed higher rates last Nov. 21 to become effective Dec. 23, but the PSC suspended use of them until April 22 of this year, unless otherwise ordered, to permit hearings. Already on file are protests from half a dozen individual C & A customers.

The proposed new charges would include a $2.25 monthly minimum for the first 500 cubic feet or less of gas used, except that the minimum would be $3.25 for consumers other than industrial customers who use gas as the sole or primary source of space heat.

The eight-step scale would range down to 48 cents per 1,000 cubic feet for all over 20 million cubic feet of gas used monthly.

Coming up Tuesday will be hearing of a Railway Express Agency, Inc. request for permission to operate motor truck service from the vicinity of Luke, Md. through Shaw and Blaine in Mineral County, Gorman in Grant County, and Thomas and Parsons in Tucker to Elkins.

The service generally would parallel the route of the Western Maryland Railway between Cumberland, Md., and Elkins. The railway recently was given PSC authority to discontinue its last remaining passenger and express service between those two cities, and Railway Express plans the truck route as a substitute.

Review of the PSC order, however, has been asked in a petition now pending before the State Supreme Court. The protest against discontinuance of the passenger train was filed on behalf of the city of Elkins and others.

Cubs Join Local Pack

Fifteen new Cubs were welcomed and presented membership cards and Bob Cat pins during a recent meeting of Cub Pack 1 at Columbia Street School.

The new members welcomed by Robert Webster, awards chairman, are Thomas Mayo, Billy Williams, John Burns, Mark Robinsonette, Alvin Herath, Joseph Baker, Billy Romine, Frederick Ruel, John Aldridge, Larry Baird, Richard Baisley, Andy McCoy, Richard Hendrickson, George Baker and Richard Bucklew.

Advancement awards went to James Dillon and William Derner, wolf rank; David Judy, Alan Jackson, David Beeman, Ricky Zegles and Ricky Cagle, bear rank; Stephen Swartley and Richard Kemmet, lion rank and Charles Hoffman, webelos.

Arrow points were awarded Walter Rotruck, James Brady, Robert Webster, Richard Kemmet and Allan Jackson. Two year pins went to Derner, Jackson, Swartley, Brady and Gary VanMeter while Judy, Rotruck, Fred Kerner and Paul Runion received year pins.

Mrs. Ray Blase, Mrs. W. K. Brady and Mrs. James Gall, den mothers, received two-year service stars. James Gall, cubmaster, reports that all dens have agreed to take part in the safety campaign that is to be sponsored by Cub and Boy Scouts.

He said the meeting night of the pack has been changed tentatively to the fourth Friday of the month. Next month's will be in the form of an appreciation dinner for den mothers.

Area Firefighters Getting Training

The Bedford Road Volunteer Fire Company is now conducting a series of fire training and equipment training classes.

The initial class, according to Fire Chief Fred Parnell, had a large turnout. He said these classes will be held on the second and fourth Mondays of each month.

Chief Parnell said anyone wishing to attend is welcome to the meetings which begin at 8 p. m.

To Question Youth

A 20-year-old youth, arrested yesterday morning by City Police, will be taken to the state attorney's office this morning for questioning in connection with the theft of a half gallon of whisky from Parkway Liquor Store, Greene Street, on Wednesday night.

Conservationists To Meet Friday

CHARLESTON, Jan. 30 (AP) — About 30 state conservationists, along with representatives of sponsoring groups, will meet here next Friday, Feb. 7, to map plans for the 16th annual Conservation Camp set for later this year.

The Conservation Department said that the annual training program probably would be held in June, for the usual one week. Phil Berthey, the camp's permanent chairman and extension forester at West Virginia University, will be in charge of next week's meeting.

Railway Clerks Greet Officers

Miller-Dale Lodge 1003, Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, installed newly elected officers at the regular meeting Wednesday night at the Moose Home, Beall Street.

M. E. Clark was installed as president; Fred W. Armbruster, vice president and member of the board of trustees; Lee Cover, recording secretary; Joseph S. Challinor, financial secretary and state legislative representative; and George L. Reinhart, chaplain.

The installing officer was James C. Carroll of Baltimore. A past president pin was presented to Fred W. Armbruster, and bouquets were given to Mrs. Carl Cooke and Mrs. Howard Mignot, in recognition of the work done by their late husbands when they served as president.

President Clark presented a savings bond to Frank Travis. The meeting was followed by dancing and a social hour.

Elementary Orchestra Will Rehearse Again

The Cumberland area elementary school orchestra will have its second rehearsal from 9:30 until 11:30 a. m. Saturday at West Side School, according to Frank E. Gamble, supervisor of music education in the county public schools.

Miss Pauline Cira, string instrumental music teacher, is directing this new orchestra which had its first rehearsal January 18. Miss Cira hopes that more string musicians will report for tomorrow's practice. The every-other-week rehearsals will continue until a concert is presented in May.

Finance Bill Action Delayed

CHARLESTON, Jan. 30 (AP) — Companion measures for the bill never have been introduced into the Legislature.

A 1957 skeleton act set up the new department as of last July 1, along with its divisions of budgets, personnel, general services, central accounting and purchasing. That enactment set forth only in the most general terms functions of the department and the divisions.

The House Judiciary Committee postponed action indefinitely on the proposal in a vote taken only today. Spokesmen for the Senate Judiciary Committee made it clear that the bill in its hands likewise will remain there.

House Majority Leader Myles (D-Fayette) and Judiciary Chairman Richardson (D-Mercer) explained that two necessary companion measures for the bill never have been introduced into the Legislature.

The Quakers were the first religious denomination to practice co-education.

ham, a smoked picnic is a thrifty pork buy. Cut from the shoulder or foreleg, a picnic has the savory flavor typical of all smoked pork products.

Smoked picnics, available as cook-before-eating and fully-cooked, are baked and glazed like hams. Place the meat on a rack in a shallow, open pan and insert a roast meat thermometer into the center of the meat, being careful the point does not touch bone or fat. Follow the directions for roasting on the label. If there are no directions, roast the meat in a 325° F. oven, allowing 30 to 35 minutes per pound for a cook-before-eating picnic, or until the internal temperature on the roast meat thermometer reaches 170° F. Roast a fully-cooked picnic to an internal temperature of 130° F.

Pork Chops For Stuffing Sweetbread Suggestion Chipped Beef Antics

Use an orange-raisin stuffing when preparing stuffed pork chops. Use pork rib chops for stuffing and always have your meat retailer cut a pocket for the stuffing on the rib side of the chop. Made this way, the chops will tend to hold in the stuffing more securely during the cooking period.

Sweetbreads may be braised or fried without precooking but sweetbreads are always precooked if being used in salads or for serving creamed with veal or ham. If the sweetbreads are not to be used immediately after the purchase, they should be precooked regardless of the preparation method.

See how easy it is for chipped beef to change from one fashionable attire to another. The addition of chopped hard-cooked egg, curry powder, diced or minced onion and green-pepper or finely diced celery all create a different dish when serving creamed chipped beef.

Stylish Lamb Shanks

Lamb shanks, a less-tender lamb cut, receive added attention when prepared with dried apricots and prunes. The shanks are cooked by a moist heat method of meat cookery... either braising or cooking in liquid.

Being delicate in flavor, lamb shanks are easily combined with many flavors... flavors that enhance the appeal of this meat cut as a main dish.

In this particular recipe, lamb shanks join forces with dried apricots and prunes to produce a dish known as Fruited Lamb Shanks.

This meat cut is also good when barbecued. This would probably become one of Dad's favorites. Lamb shanks can also be stuffed. A rice or bread stuffing is placed in the pocket left after the removal of the shank bone.

Reba Staggs, well-known meat expert, explains that lamb shanks are a less-tender cut and therefore must be cooked by a moist heat method of meat cookery... either braising or cooking in liquid. Remember, regardless of what lamb cut is being served, lamb is always served piping hot or cold... never serve lamb lukewarm.

Fruited Lamb Shanks
6 lamb shanks
1 cup enriched flour
1 teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons lard or drippings
1 cup water
1 cup dried, pitted prunes
1 cup dried apricots

Dredge lamb shanks in seasoned flour. Brown slowly in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Add water, prunes, and apricots. Cover and simmer until tender, about 2 hours. Yield: 6 servings.

Today's vanilla beans come from Mexico, Madagascar, Tahiti, Java and South America. Quality varies greatly. Burnett's experts consider Mexican prime beans finest for their delicate flavor. French Bourbons best for strength, and blend both.

Historically, vanilla was as romantic and valuable in the early world trade as precious metals and gems. For more than three centuries after Cortes, all efforts to grow the vanilla plant successfully outside of Mexico failed — had Montezuma really put a curse on it?

Sausage Sandwich

Place 1 pound pork sausage links and 2 tablespoons of water in a cold frying pan. Cover and cook slowly for 5 minutes, uncover and brown links. Spread 2 tablespoons of applesauce on each of 8 slices of buttered toast. Arrange two pork sausage links on each slice of bread topped with a cheese strip. Broil these sandwiches slowly until the cheese has melted.

Vanilla is one of the New World's great gifts to the Old World. When Cortes defeated the Aztecs and conquered Mexico in 1519-21 the vanilla bean of the Aztec imperial court was part of his most treasured booty.

On Valentine's Day Serve A Sweetheart Tart

NEW YORK, N. Y. — February is dedicated to blushing maids and amorous swains the world over. And on the fourteenth day of the month, the patron saint of lovers, Saint Valentine, has decreed that a "lover forsaken a new love may get." For few loves or old, however, Valentine's Day has remained for centuries the best of occasions for exchanging sentimental greetings. The form and effectiveness of such salutations have varied from century to century and swain to swain, but the goal has remained the same. History has recorded, for example, the instance of an eighteenth century pastry chef in the court of Louis the Sixteenth who transmitted love letters to the object of his affection between sealed layers of pastry — a unique idea and a variation of which is recommended for present-day Don Juans.

For this Valentine's Day fashion a toothsome pastry heart filled with sweetened fruit and chopped nuts. The secret of this delectable dessert is the golden pastry which encloses the fruit filling. It's made with the golden shortening, now in a new foil wrapper. Decorated with a golden pastry arrow, this sweetheart tart is guaranteed to influence the most reluctant suitor.

Sweetheart Tart

(One 12-inch tart)
3 cups sifted enriched flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup shortening
(ing)
9 tablespoons water
1 No. 2 can cherries, sliced apples or peaches
¼ cup sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
¼ teaspoon nutmeg or cinnamon
½ cup chopped walnuts or pecans

In a mixing bowl combine flour and salt. With a pastry blender or two knives cut in shortening until mixture looks like coarse cornmeal. Sprinkle water over mixture, one tablespoon at a time, and mix lightly with a fork until all flour is moistened. With the hands gather pastry into a ball.

Cut a large heart from heavy brown paper — 12 inches across. Roll out half the golden pastry on a lightly floured board into a large circle ¼ inch thick. Place the paper heart on the pastry and cut around it with a sharp knife. Remove paper and transfer the pastry heart to a cookie sheet. Drain the fruit and reserve the juice for the sauce. Arrange the fruit on the pastry, keeping it ¼ inch from the edge. Sprinkle the fruit with the sugar mixed with the cornstarch and spice; sprinkle with the chopped nuts. Roll out remaining pastry ¼ inch thick and cut out a second heart one-fourth inch larger all around than the first heart, using the paper pattern for a guide. Place second pastry heart over the first and seal the edges by pressing them together with the tines of a fork. Prick top of pastry generously with a fork. Roll out scraps of pastry and cut into the shape of an arrow. Place the arrow on the baking sheet on the side that will be nearest the oven door. Bake the tart at 400°F. for about 30 minutes, or until browned, removing the arrow at the end of 12 minutes. Serve hot or cold decorated with the golden pastry arrow. Serve with a sauce made of whipped cream flavored with the reserved fruit juice. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

Economy Meal For February

A thrifty meat cut for an economy-minded homemaker is a ham shank. Serve it with sauerkraut, sweet potatoes, buttered peas, a lettuce wedge. Boston brown bread and your favorite fruit for dessert.

Liver Lecture

Liver is all meat and no bone. It has little fat so needs additional fat during cooking. Too high temperature or too long cooking tends to make the liver less tender and also tends to destroy the flavor.

Major League All-Star Game Selection System Changed

Managers, Coaches, Players Will Participate In Poll

Baltimore Is Host
July 8; Fans' Vote
Is Unsatisfactory

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick said today the starting line-ups of the 1958 All-Star teams would be decided by a poll of players, managers and coaches of the two leagues.

Each player, manager or coach will be asked to vote for an opponent team in his own league. He may not vote for players on his own team.

Baltimore Gets Game

Frick said the 16 player representatives had agreed to cooperate in the plan. The 1958 game will be played at Baltimore, Tuesday, July 8.

Frick's announcement, following conferences with President Will Harridge of the American League and Warren Giles of the National League, meant the end of the fan poll idea. Since 1947 the fans have voted for the eight starters in each league. In earlier years the fans participated in varying degrees from time to time.

Obviously the 1957 poll in which Frick arbitrarily eliminated two Cincinnati players from the starting line-up after a deluge of Cincinnati ballots unbalanced the voting, was the basic reason for the change.

Joke In Recent Years

"I have been in favor of the fan vote," said Frick, "but I am not in favor of the way it turned out. It has been a joke in recent years. The newspaper poll of fans simply is not practical. We do not get a true cross section and there is no way to balance it."

Frick said the poll probably would not be taken until about two weeks before the date of the game. He estimated the total vote would be between 400 and 500 as contrasted to about 750,000 last year.

The opposing managers in the All-Star game will select the rest of the squad, including the pitchers. They will use the results of the poll for guidance to pick the men behind the eight starters.

Duke Wins Over Virginia, 88-71

DURHAM, N.C., Jan. 30.—Duke's Blue Devils won their third straight basketball game tonight with an 88-71 defeat of Atlantic Coast Conference neighbor Virginia.

Paul Schmidt, 6-5, Duke senior, bottled up Virginia's 6-7 scoring flash, Herb Busch, and himself collected 20 points and 14 rebounds. Busch, who committed four fouls in the first half, got nine points for the night and fouled out shortly after Schmidt had done so.

Compared with their smart showing in dumping nationally first-ranked West Virginia on Monday night, the Blue Devils' game tonight was sloppy. Coach Hal Bradley used substitutes liberally and the Devils never were in serious trouble.

Top scorer for Virginia was sophomore Paul Adkins with 21. Teammate Bill Metzger got 17 and 11 rebounds. Following Schmidt in the Duke scoring column were Bobby Joe Harris, 18; Bucky Allen, 15, and Jim Newcome, 14.

Spahn Signs For $65,000

Lefty Inks 14th
Pact With Braves

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 30.—Warren Spahn, who will be 37 before the 1958 baseball season opens, signed his 14th contract with the Braves today for a reported $65,000.

The veteran left-hander, winner of the Cy Young award as the majors' outstanding pitcher last season, came to terms after a brief chat with General Manager John Quinn.

The salary would make Spahn one of the highest—if not the highest—paid pitchers in the majors. He won 21 games last year.

Ray Nagel Named Utah Grid Coach

Succeeds Curtice,
Now At Stanford

SALT LAKE CITY, Jan. 30.—(INS)—Ray Nagel, top backfield coach under Red Sanders at UCLA and former assistant to Bud Wilkinson at Oklahoma, today was named head football coach at the University of Utah.

He will succeed Jack Curtice, who resigned as athletic director and football coach early this month to take the job as head coach at Stanford University.

The 30-year-old Nagel was an outstanding quarterback at UCLA under Red Sanders from 1946 to 1949 and coached the 1951 and 1952 seasons at his alma mater before being hired as player-coach for the Chicago Cardinals for the 1953 season.

Nagel returned to college football as head backfield coach at Oklahoma under Wilkinson and then returned to the UCLA where he has been for the past three seasons.

Salary for the job was not announced. However, Curtice had received $14,000 per year for the dual job of coach and athletic director, while Nagel will serve only as coach.

Campanella's Legs Paralyzed, Still On Critical List

GLEN COVE, N.Y., Jan. 30.—Further improvement in the condition of Roy Campanella, Dodger catcher who was injured in an automobile crash early Tuesday, was reported today. But his legs remained paralyzed and he still is on the critical list.

An afternoon bulletin issued at the hospital said Campanella had rested more during the day than he had last night, when he was reported to have been somewhat restless.

The bulletin said he had regained some feeling as far down as the abdomen, an indication of improvement. Earlier he had only been able to feel a pinch or jab on the upper chest, arms or hands. A Dodger spokesman said he was able to move his fingertips a little.

Campanella continued to run a temperature slightly above normal but the hospital said this is expected.

St. Louis Is Victor

WICHITA, Kan., Jan. 30.—St. Louis cooled off Wichita's blistering early pace and defeated the Wheatshockers 81-73 tonight to take over third place in the Missouri Valley basketball standings.

Cincinnati Beats
Miami, Ohio, 79-59

CINCINNATI, Jan. 30.—Oscar Robertson scored 23 of his 30 points in the last half tonight as the University of Cincinnati's third-rated Bearcats finally shook off a stubborn Miami of Ohio team for a 79-59 basketball victory. Miami is the leader in the Mid-American conference.

Miami, using a four-man zone defense with John Powell trailing Robertson, held the nation's leading scorer to one field goal and seven points in the first half. He got only four shots from the field.

In the final period, Cincinnati pulled into a 55-40 lead before Miami, led by Wayne Embry and Eddie Wingard rallied to trim the Cincinnati margin at five points.

Then the Bearcats turned it in with Robertson getting 12 points in the last three and a half minutes.

Embry, who went into the game with a 24.2 scoring average got 18.

Falcons Down Beckley Quint

SOPHIA, W. Va., Jan. 30.—Fairmont State College fought off a last five minute rally by Beckley to win a State Conference game here tonight, 103-96.

In the battle of the conference's leading scorers, Fairmont's Harry Hall pitched in 32 points, but made only a slight gain on the loop leader, Denny Skiles of Beckley, who finished with 27.

Skiles scored only five points in the first half, getting all the rest in the final 20 minutes when he was playing with four personal fouls.

U.S. Team Named For Slalom Race

BAD GASTEIN, Austria, Jan. 30.—Coach Othmar Schneider said tonight the U.S. team for the slalom race of the World Alpine Skiing Championships would be Buddy Werner, Tom Corcoran, Max Marolt and Marvin Moriarty.

Schneider and team Manager James Huidekoper said several times today that Dave Gorsuch of Climax, Colo., would race the slalom Sunday as well as all other events in the Feb. 1-9 championships.

Four Fort Ashby players scored in the double figures, Glen Pyles leading the attack with 27 points while Eddie Linn collected 24. Sam Barnes 21 and Gary Isner 10. Dow Finsterwald, Stan Mosel Lead In Phoenix Open PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 30.—(INS)—Dow Finsterwald and rookie pro Stan Mosel of Essex Falls, N. J., compiled brilliant putting and pin-point accuracy off the tees today to share the first-round lead in the $15,000 Phoenix Open Golf Tournament.

Both golfers fired almost identical five-under-par 66s.

The two sharpshooters each picked up five birdies over Phoenix Country Club's narrow, fairwayed, tree-lined course and played even par the rest of the way in staking out their claims to the $2,000 first-place prize in the 72-hole tournament.

Four pros, including 22-year-old John McMullen of Sacramento, Calif., were two strokes off the pace-setters. Bracketed with McMullen were two other new faces—Tom Jacobs and Wes Ellis, Jr.—and veteran Jerry Barber.

Pitt Defeats St. Johns, 86-73

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 30.—Pitt ran away with St. John's of Brooklyn, ranked 13th nationally in the Associated Press poll, with a devastating 86-73 upset victory tonight, eliminating the Redmen as the only unbeaten major college basketball team.

Pitt picked up its 10th victory against five losses. St. John's had won nine straight.

Little Don Hennon, 5-8 Pitt flash whose 26.6 scoring average was fourth best in the country going into the game, led the Panthers with 25 points. Hennon was taken out of the game with about three minutes left when Pitt held a 20-point lead.

Al Seiden, who left the game with a little less than four minutes remaining, bucketed 23 points for the Redmen.

Pitt held a slim 42-37 halftime lead but pulled steadily ahead after the intermission.

Anti-Trust Group Approves Reserve Clauses And Draft

Favors Legislation
For Concessions,
Tickets, Rentals

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—The House antitrust subcommittee today bestowed qualified approval on player contract reserve clauses and the draft of college stars. It did so in a bill designed to equalize the legal standing of professional sports.

The subcommittee recommended legislation that would apply federal antitrust laws only to commercial aspects of team sports.

If Congress passes the bill, such money making activities as hot dog, beer and peanut concessions and the setting of ticket prices would be subject to antitrust regulation. So would the rental of stadiums.

On the other hand, subcommittee Chairman Celler (D-NY) said baseball, football, basketball and ice hockey would be allowed to continue "reasonable reserve clauses, player drafts and farm systems."

The measure, written in broad language, may also enable organized baseball to settle its major-league quarrel over television. Committee sources said exemptions would, among other things, permit the majors to adopt a rule banning telecasts into areas where minor teams are playing.

Minors Attack TV

The minors have bitterly attacked an agreement by six major league clubs to telecast a game every Sunday over a nationwide network (CBS). As they did last year, two networks (NBC and CBS) plan to carry separate games every Saturday this season.

Celler said organized sports, under the subcommittee proposal, would be able "to impose territorial restrictions on the teams and to impose such reasonable restraints on television and radio broadcasting as are needed to preserve these territories."

Supreme Court rulings have held the antitrust laws do not apply to baseball but that they do affect pro football. This situation led to the subcommittee's lengthy investigation of sports last summer, when it received testimony from team owners and players and government officials.

Only the league-organized sports of baseball, football, basketball and hockey are affected by the bill, which still must get through the full Judiciary Committee as well as both houses of Congress—including a rather committee screening on the Senate side.

Professional boxing, now engaged in a court battle over its antitrust status, was not explored by the subcommittee.

First reactions from sports officials were restrained, and there was some objection within the subcommittee.

Would Avoid Litigation

Rep. Keating (R-NY) said he would work for an amendment to provide more clearly that the reserve clause and other agreements on playing aspects are excluded from antitrust jurisdiction. Otherwise, he said, "baseball and other sports face endless litigation by disgruntled players."

Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick, while withholding comment on particulars, took up that note in expressing hope the Judiciary Committee will not recommend legislation "that would subject organized sports to the constant threat of litigation."

Maurice Podoloff, head of the National Basketball Assn., said that "without reading the bill and knowing all that it contains, I would say that it is a very fair and cooperative one."

Lakers Edge Cincy

MINNEAPOLIS, Jan. 30.—Two free throws by Vern Mikkelsen with seven seconds left gave Minneapolis a 105-104, come-from-behind victory over Cincinnati in a National Basketball Assn. game tonight.

Fort Hill Hosts Valley In WMI League Feature Tonight

Jackets Face Miers' Lions In PVC Game

Allegany, Beall In Home Contests; Bulldogs At Keyser

Valley High School's Black Knights and Fort Hill's Sentinels, who shared first place with Allegany two weeks ago when the first half schedule of the W.M.I. Basketball League drew to a close, will battle it out on the Fort Hill court tonight in the feature attraction as the county race swings into the home stretch.

Mt. Savage plays at Allegany and Bruce is at Beall for the other league contests tonight. Allegany should win over the Indians with ease and stay on top but either Fort Hill or Valley will be knocked out of the tie for the league leadership.

As the teams open the final half of the schedule, Allegany, Fort Hill and Valley are tied at 4-1. Each school has five more games on its league schedule.

Valley Won Opener

Valley handed Fort Hill a 50-38 beating in Lonaconing on January 3 and the Sentinels are hopeful of avenging that setback tonight. It will be the 14th start of the campaign for Coach John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh's quint which now owns an 8-5 record. Valley's overall mark is nine wins and five losses.

Joe Stanislawczyk and John Fox will officiate the game on the Greenway Avenue court set to start at 8 o'clock.

Mt. Savage comes to Campobello with an 0-5 record in the league and an overall mark of 2-11. It's the 13th start for Coach Chester Payne's Campers who have won seven and lost five. "Pete" Elliott and Jack Burner will handle this game while Clifford Van Roby and Joe Wolfe will do the whistling at Frostburg.

Jackets Host Piedmont

Coach "Huck" Miers' Piedmont High Lions will put their 8-0 Potomac Valley Conference record on the line tonight when they invade Moorefield to face Johnny Paugh's Yellowjackets in the No. 1 game in the 17-school circuit. Piedmont holds a 71-53 decision over the Jackets and appears to have "too many guns" for the Hardy countians. Moorefield is 5-7 in the league.

Piedmont (12-1) is undefeated since December 10 when it dropped a 53-56 decision at Valley High. The Lions own a winning streak of 10 games.

Circleville occupies second place in the league at the present time with a 4-1 record (.800) while Keyser and Wardsville (7-2) are tied for third at 778.

Other P.V.C. games on tap are Ridgeley at Romney, Petersburg at Franklin and West Virginia School for the Deaf at Fort Ashby.

Bulldogs Visit Keyser

The teams that are expected to battle it out for the 6-A sectional title in March at Petersburg will open their regular season series tonight when the Martinsburg High Bulldogs tangle with Keyser High School at Keyser. Last season, KHS whipped the C.V.A.L. quint three times, including the sectional finals, 53-43. The second game of the current series is set for Martinsburg Feb. 21.

Coach John Shelton's Golden Tornado has reeled off six wins in a row since being spilled by Ridgeley January 8 and owns an overall record of 10-3. Martinsburg snapped Frederick's 7-game winning streak Tuesday night by beating the C.V.A.L. leaders, 57-52, and now boasts a record of six wins and three losses.

Hyndman At Oldtown

Hyndman High's Hornets visit Oldtown. Hedgesville is at Wardsville, Berkeley Springs at Harpers Ferry and Circleville at Harman in other games tonight.

Mountaineer High entertains Tygart's Valley High at Davis, Frederick hosts Richard Montgomery High of Rockville and Mel Henry's North Hagerstown Hubs battle the Owls at Westminster.

West Liberty's Hilltoppers open a two-day invasion of this area by meeting Shepherd College at Shepherdstown tonight. Potomac State hosts West Liberty in another WVAC game Saturday night at Keyser.

Hoad Wins Tourney And $5,600 Prize

MELBOURNE, Jan. 30 (AP)—Australia's Lew Hoad tonight won the $22,400 Australian round robin pro tennis tournament by defeating countryman Frank Sedgman 6-3, 5-7, 6-3.

The victory gave the 23-year-old Hoad a 5-0 clean sweep of the tournament and the $5,600 first prize. Sedgman finished second and won $3,360.

Dick (Pancho) Gonzales, the world pro champion from Los Angeles, defeated Tony Trabert of Cincinnati in another match 8-10, 6-3, 6-3.

Tony Mlekush Dies Hansgen Is Honored
Negro Cagers Excel Christ Has Big Job

By C. V. BURNS

ANTHONY (Tony) Mlekush, 63, native of Thomas, W. Va., who died in Sydney, Nova Scotia, on Sunday, will be remembered by members of Cumberland's Liberty Athletic Club of the 1920s as the clever little shortstop for Thomas baseball teams.

Paul (P. K.) Collins' tossers paid a trip annually to Thomas for several years and they still talk about the hospitality of the folks up Tucker County way.

Mlekush was a real booster of the West Virginia community and he always managed to assemble classy baseball teams in the old Davis Coal and Coke area.

Some of the other names on those Thomas teams that we recall were Mike "Lefty" Suder, whom we believe now resides in Cumberland; Catcher Tom Suder, "Dusty" Miller, Walter Hoyt, who played basketball for the Keyser Collegians and last but not least, Tony Stankus, a darned good pitcher.

In 1921, Mlekush brought an unheralded team out of the West Virginia hills to Frostburg to play the Demons, who then were managed by Frank Spates and Lonnie Brown. That Frostburg outfit was a good one and beat the best teams of the Blue Ridge League on Sundays because Sabbath ball was taboo in that organized ball circuit. Stankus completely baffled the Demons with his assortment of tantalizing offerings and Thomas scored a stunning upset. We recall those games because we scored home contests for Frostburg that season.

The last we heard from "Tony" he was in Chicago. At the time of his death he was employed on a construction job with the Koppers Company of Pittsburgh. Final rites will be conducted at Thomas on Saturday.

THE stellar performances of Joseph "Goose" Taylor and the Teyman boys of Piedmont High School's unbeaten Potomac Valley Conference team and Ronald Smith and Kay Hollingsworth, key players of John Shelton's Keyser High School quint, stresses the important roles the Negro is playing in high school athletics in the tri-state area.

Piedmont and Keyser appear to be the class of the P.V.C. and Taylor and Smith are among the top sharpshooters.

Three years ago Tommy Smith of Carver High grabbed the spotlight when he hung up an all-time city scoring record of 485 points in 21 games for an average of 23.5.

William "Junie" Perry, of the Tri-Towns, snared the batting championship of the Pen-Mar Baseball League twice while playing for Grantsville in Garrett County and also gave a good account of himself at Potomac State.

And did you notice that McKendree Methodist of the local Sunday School League and Dickerson and Wesley of the Fearer Memorial League, Frostburg, are the only unbeaten teams in those circuits?

Who knows, these kids may give our Bill Russells, Wilt Chamberlains, Oscar Robertsons and "Goose" Tatums of the near future.

WALTER HANSGEN, of Bernardsville, N. J., received Sports Illustrated's United States "sports car driver of the year" award at a dinner held the other day.

Hansgen, who won the 1956 feature race at the Cumberland Municipal Airport, and finished second to Carroll Shelby of Dallas, Texas, in last year's Cumberland Lions Club event, was presented a silver tray at the dinner.

CHRIST CHARUHAS, newly elected president of the Cumberland Dapper Dan Club, has a rebuilding job on his hands.

When Christ took over his new office he learned that the club's membership had dwindled to less than fifty. At one time the membership totaled close to 400.

Membership cards may be obtained from Charuhas or other members of the organization.

The new prexy believes Cumberland should have a Little League park like other communities, many much smaller than Cumberland. He cites Hancock as a good example. The Dapper Daps sponsor Little League Baseball here.

DR. H. C. "Red" Carlson, director of student health at the University of Pittsburgh but better known as the celebrated Panther basketball coach believes that of the players he ever has seen Charley Hyatt, of Pitt, and Paul Birch, of Duquesne, were the best.

"In fact, I never have seen any college player who could equal this pair in all-around skills," Dr. Carlson says.

The man who saw the greatest college players perform in the last thirty years says it isn't fair to compare players today with those of 20, 25 and 30 years ago.

"Basketball is a different game today," he added. "For one thing the ball is smaller and easier to put into the basket. The equipment is better but so are the skills."

Dr. Carlson has been at Pitt since 1914. The last team he coached at Pitt was in 1952-53.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30 (AP)—Yvon Durelle, Canadian fisherman, will meet the last man to beat him when he takes on Clarence Hinnant of Washington in a 10-round light heavyweight match at Madison Square Garden tomorrow night.

When Durelle was floored by food poisoning, his original date with Anthony was set back from Jan. 10 to Jan. 31. Early this week Anthony had to pull out because of the flu and Hinnant was signed as a sub.

The 10-round match will be carried on network (NBC) radio and television, starting at 10 p.m. (EST).

Sorrentino Wins With Lofty Peak

Beats Duck Heaven In Hialeah Feature

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 30 (AP)—Lofty Peak, who had been idle since last July 13, made an auspicious winter debut by winning the $5,000 Tarpon Purse today at Hialeah Park.

The $6.40 victor, coupled in the betting with Saim as the C. M. Kline entry, defeated Greentree Stable's Duck Heaven by four lengths. Ogden Phipps' Bureau-cracy was four lengths behind Duck Heaven while pacing Rockcastle, racing for Mrs. J. A. Leone, by one length.

Lofty Peak was timed in 1:23 4/5 for seven furlongs.

Mike Sorrentino sent Lofty Peak to the front at the start and the 6-year old stakes campaigner never was threatened after opening a two-length lead before leaving the backstretch.

Duck Heaven chased Lofty Peak most of the way but lacked the speed to keep pace. Bureaucracy came on from fifth place, to take show money. Rockcastle flattened out after being in third place in the backstretch.

Lofty Peak, who raced against the best on the New York circuit last summer and recorded several creditable efforts, is expected to be pointed for the $50,000 McLennan Feb. 8 and the $100,000 Widener Feb. 22.

Ranchero 2nd, $38.70 winner of the first race, and Whip Out, a $77 longshot in the second produced an $869 daily double payoff.

Safecrackers Fail To Get Polio Funds

BALTIMORE, Jan. 30 (AP)—Safecrackers failed to get more than $130,000 in polio funds yesterday.

The money collected by 15,000 women Tuesday night had been put in a bank instead of the safe.

The safe in the offices of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis was found yesterday battered but unopened. It contained no cash.

Foundation officials said the burglars apparently did not realize the March of Dimes funds collected in the drive in Baltimore County were taken directly to a bank Tuesday night.

Other offices in the building were ransacked but police said the safe in the foundation office was the only one that showed signs of a safe-cracking attempt.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"I just love playing doubles, don't you?"

Behind The News In Business
by Leslie Gould

NEW YORK—The Federal Reserve Board, through its controls on interest rates and the flow of credit, is facing a new test—its biggest.

This is whether it can stimulate a lagging business economy and at the same time sit on inflation.

The Federal Reserve, established 35 years ago as a central banking system, has yet to establish a clear record of success or failure in either curbing or stimulating a business boom. The same as to checking or encouraging inflation.

Now, it is faced with trying—to speak—to carry water on both shoulders—stimulate business and at the same time curb inflation. It will be a neat trick, if it can do it.

So far the Federal Reserve's actions have been restricted to juggling the discount rate, this was its chief weapon in its large unsuccessful efforts to stop the inflation of the last two or three years. Then, it was raising the rate. Now, it is reducing the rate, making a complete reversal of its tight money policy of the last three years.

The tight money policy was aimed at controlling inflation and slowing down the business boom. The latter happened, but the Reserve policy was ineffective as to the first—inflation.

The failure as to the inflation was due to a misconception that this is a credit inflation as in the 1920s. It isn't. It is a wage-price inflation, stemming from the failure of productivity to offset the higher wage and material costs.

All the tight money policy did was to add to the cost of doing business, by putting up interest rates. So, to that extent it was inflationary.

The Reserve's hopes were that its policy, by making it tough for business, would stiffen the backs of management in negotiating new wage contracts. A real back-door approach.

As to business, the policy probably did put somewhat of a damper on it. At least it helped to slow spending by business for plant expansion and new equipment. It is questionable how desirable this was, for only through installation of labor saving equipment and more efficient plant can business hold down costs.

A look back at the record shows that changes in the discount rates have little influence on the course of business. In the 1930s, the rate was cut from 4 to 1½ per cent in five steps between February 7, 1930 and May 8, 1931. Business was on the downgrade all those years and did not turn positively until 1933 after the banking holiday.

The rate was increased in two jumps in October, 1931 to 3½ per cent, but the business course was unchanged. In 1933, with the advent of the New Deal, which brought into the Federal Reserve Marriner Eccles, the Utah banker, the artificially cheap money policy was adopted. This continued right up to 1953, when the tight money policy was adopted.

The cheap money policy was a snare and a delusion. All it did was reduce the income of the savers. It and the other inflationary policies of those years put a penalty on thrift.

The one time the Federal Reserve had the chance to operate successfully was in 1928 and 1929. That was a credit inflation and money was pouring into stock market speculation. The Reserve just sat on its hands or rather just sat. It did nothing until the late stages of the boom and then it attempted to slam on the brakes. It was too late. Too much momentum had been gained.

Coming down to today. The Reserve properly in 1955 reversed the cheap money policy and it took steps slowly. Then, it made its mistake. First, it failed to recognize the inflation for what it was. Then, although the signs were clear that business was slipping and the stock market was declining, it pressed forward last year with its tight money policy. That was last August, when it raised the discount rate to 3½ per cent.

By September, it was obvious a wrong guess had been made, but the Federal stuck to its guns until November before reversing itself. Now, it has had to make a second reduction. It is going to have to make other moves.

The trouble is that its changes are having a reverse psychological effect. Instead of instilling confidence, they are upsetting it. Confidence is what makes for good business.

The bidding:
North East South West
Pass Pass 1 heart Pass
2 hearts Pass 4 hearts Pass
Pass Pass

Opening lead: King of diamonds.

The game contract in hearts today was reached on direct quantitative bidding.

North preferred to raise his partner in spite of his even distribution because he held a near maximum with four trumps. South's hand revalued to 20 points after the raise, more than ample for game since he knew that his partner had at least seven points.

West opened the king of diamonds, and in compliance with East's signal continued with a low one. East's ace was ruffed by declarer, who appeared to be in good strategic position to fulfill contract, for if either of the finesses succeeded, he was home. This afforded him a splendid chance for victory, but he presently hit upon a scheme which was virtually sure-fire.

Spurning the trump finesse, he laid down the ace of hearts and was pleased to find that both hands followed. He then played three rounds of clubs, discarding ing a low spade from the closed hand. Then came the jack of diamonds, and declarer was in position to assure success of the contract by refusing to ruff. West, after the second trick, became marked with queen of diamonds so that declarer discarded a low spade, which was a loser in any event, and West was saddled with the lead.

If West held the king of hearts he could cash it but could not escape from leading either a spade into declarer's tenace, or a minor suit which would permit declarer to ruff in dummy as he discarded the queen of spades from his own hand.

It is true that at the point that dummy led the jack of diamonds, South could win the hand by ruffing and getting out with a trump, forcing West into the lead. But that would have been unsound play, for declarer had no knowledge of the location of the king of hearts, and if East had it, a spade lead through might ruin the contract.

Market Closes Slightly
Lower As Rally Fizzles

NEW YORK, Jan. 30 (P)—An early stock market rally fizzled today and the market closed a bit lower in light trading.

By the close, most key stocks were off fractionally, some losing around a point. A few gainers remained. The diminished volume removed emphasis from the decline.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dipped 60 cents to $162.40 with the industrials down 80 cents, the rails down $1.00 and the utilities unchanged.

Of 1,152 issues traded, 454 declined and 418 rose. New Highs for the year totaled 22. The one new low was Foster Wheeler.

Volume totaled 2,150,000 shares compared with $2,220,000 yesterday. Eight of the 15 most active stocks rose and 7 fell. Royal Dutch rose ¾ to 39½ on 130,100 shares, topping the list. Second was Bethlehem, off ½ at 39½ on 41,000 shares. Third was U.S. Steel, up ¼ at 56½ on 39,100 shares.

Next came Standard Oil (New Jersey), off 1 at 50½, and Fruehauf Trailer, up ¾ at 11¼.

Granite City was the next most actively traded steel stock, losing 3 points. Republic Steel and Youngstown Sheet dropped ¼ each.

Capital Airlines rose ¾ as a Civil Aeronautics Board counsel recommended it be given the Buffalo, N.Y.-Miami, Fla. route. The preferred stock of Allegheny dropped 2 and the common was off ¼ as news came that Allan Kirby, president, had been given the additional office of chairman, succeeding the late Robert R. Young.

Senator See Announces Candidacy

Seeks Nomination On GOP Ticket

Senator Charles M. See announced yesterday that he will be a candidate for the office of state senator from Allegany County on the Republican ticket in the May 20 primary election.

Sen. See has been a member of the General Assembly since 1938, when he was elected to the House of Delegates. For nine of his 16 years as a delegate, he served as chairman of the Allegany County Delegation.

He was elevated to the Senate in 1955 to fill the unexpired term of Robert B. Kimble, who resigned to head the Maryland Department of Employment Security.

During his career as a legislator, he has served on all major committees of both the Senate and House, including Ways and Means, Judiciary, Banking, Insurance, Social Security, Labor and Inter-governmental relations in the House, and Judicial Proceedings, Education, Executive Nominations and Labor in the Senate.

To Oppose Veto

He said he has consistently voted to increase the pay of Maryland school teachers and intends to vote to override Governor McKeldin's veto of last year's $600 teacher pay raise bill if the measure comes to the Senate.

In his campaign statement, he said:

"I was one of the group which stepped forward in 1947 to save Frostburg State Teachers College after a report presented to the General Assembly recommended its abandonment.

"Since that time, I have consistently worked to enlarge the college which has enabled Frostburg to make the transition from a coal mining community to a sparkling college town.

"I have been persistent in working for new schools of Allegany County and for improving and modernizing old schools.

Urges Road Speedup

"I have urged the acceleration of the 12-year road program in Allegany County. I am not completely satisfied with the impact of the road program in the county and will bend all my efforts to improve roads in the Georges Creek section and on the mountains from Cumberland eastward in the next four years.

"I co-sponsored legislation providing for the payment of prevailing rates of pay on all state road projects in Allegany County. "I sponsored the Allegany County Civil Service bill which gives county employees security in employment and places them on a par with federal, state and municipal employees.

"I have aided the handicapped in obtaining jobs, vocational rehabilitation and other benefits and have cooperated with the Governor's Committee to promote the Physically Handicapped and advanced the cause served by Friends Aware of Handicapped Children.

Wants More Parks

"I will continue efforts to persuade the Department of Forests and Parks to expand the state's recreational facilities in Allegany County. The goal has been partially achieved with the development of the Dams Mountain recreation area but I hope some day to see the creation of one or more large parks, such as have been developed in Garrett County.

"I have consistently worked to make laws which will encourage new industry to locate in Allegany County and to help existing firms expand. The 10-year tax exemption program gives industries a chance to get their feet on the ground.

Native Of City

"If nominated and elected, I will continue to serve the people of Allegany County as conscientiously as I have in the past. I will appreciate continued support in the primary election May 20."

Senator See, who lives at 508 Forster Avenue with his wife, Mrs. Margie Lee Stonestreet See, is a native of Cumberland and a son of the late Amos E. and Bessie Keller See.

He is a member of Holy Cross Episcopal Church, the Knights of Malta, Elks and Eagles lodges and the Cumberland Optimist Club.

He is president of the Allegany-Garrett Tuberculosis Association and is a member of the Frostburg and Lonaconing Republican clubs.

Also seeking nomination for the senate post is Delegate George R. Hughes Jr., of Cumberland, minority floor leader of the House of Delegates in 1956 and 1957.

March 10 will be the deadline for filing for county offices.

Republican candidates filing include three for the House of Delegates, four for County Commissioner and one each for sheriff, register of wills and clerk of the Circuit Court. Only one Democrat, a candidate for county commissioner, has filed.

State Income Tax Returns Being Filed

County Schedule Is Announced

By filing your 1957 Maryland state income tax return now, you can avoid being caught in the usual last-minute rush.

This is a reminder from Edward V. Welsh, manager of the local office of the State Comptroller at 9 Market Street.

He pointed out that business has been brisk since December 27 when auditors began assisting taxpayers. At least 150 persons have been showing up at the office each day.

Assisting taxpayers with their returns are John L. Feldman, Charles M. Fradiska and Maurice M. Stegmaier. Office hours are from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. Monday through Friday.

The auditors will be at the local office from now until February 10 when they will go out into communities of Allegany and Garrett counties. During their absence the cashier will be on hand at the office here to collect current and delinquent taxes.

The auditors will return to the local office on March 11 and will assist residents until the April 15 deadline. This schedule has been set up for the auditors' visits throughout the two counties:

February 10, Oakland, Court House; February 13 and 14, Westernport, City Building; February 17, Barton, First National Bank (banking hours); February 18, Lonaconing, Liberty Trust Company (banking hours); February 19 and 20, Frostburg, Fidelity Savings Bank Building, second floor; and February 21 to March 8, Luke, Devon Club.

Mr. Welsh said anyone desiring information on filing tax returns may call his office, PA 4-3223.

Five Types Of Federal Taxes Are Due Today

Employers are reminded that five types of taxes are due today, four of which are for the fourth quarter ending December 31, 1957, and one annual return. Taxes are due from:

Returns from persons liable for quarterly excise tax returns (Form 720) are due today, closing out the fourth quarter of last year. Excise taxes include retail dealers excise taxes, excise taxes on facilities and services, manufacturers excise taxes, taxes on products and commodities.

Employers who during 1957 had four or more employees on twenty or more days, each day being in a different calendar week, are required to file Form 940, Federal Unemployment Tax. This is due today.

Final income tax returns are due today from those taxpayers who did not remit the fourth quarter estimated tax due January 15. Farmers are reminded that Form 943, Employers Tax Return for Agricultural Employees, is due today.

Students Pass Most Easily In Upper Grades

County Has Highest Promotion Record

BY ALBERT D. DARBY
News Staff Writer

It apparently gets progressively easier for Allegany County public school children to gain promotion each year as they advance through the grades.

Statistical reports contained in the 90th annual report of the State Board of Education for the year which ended June 30, 1956, just released, show that Allegany County has the smallest percentage of non-promotions among high school pupils in the entire state.

For the year which ended June 30, 1956, only 133 or 1.9 per cent of the 7,037 enrolled in Allegany County high schools failed to gain promotion.

Next after Allegany in percentage of non-promotions among high school pupils were Washington County, 2.1 per cent; Garrett County, 3.9 per cent; Caroline County, 4.0 per cent, and Harford County, 4.1 per cent. The state average was 6 per cent or 7,279 not promoted out of 121,804.

In the elementary grades, Allegany County is closer to the state average, ranking fifth from the lowest in the percentage of non-promotions. Among elementary pupils, Allegany County had 226 or 2.7 per cent not promoted. State-wide there were 8,406 not promoted or 4.1 per cent.

The lowest percentages not promoted were Frederick County, 0.6 per cent; Washington County, 0.9 per cent; Queen Anne's, 1.7 per cent; Dorchester, 2.4 per cent, and Allegany, 2.7 per cent. Garrett County had 4.4 per cent not promoted. The highest percentage of non-promotions was 14.6 per cent in Talbot County on the Eastern Shore.

Of the 226 elementary pupils who failed to gain promotion, six were because of illness, nine because of irregular attendance, 210 because of immaturity and one under the "all other causes" listing.

Allegany County was much tougher with its first graders as 7.3 per cent failed to win promotion. Nine other counties had smaller percentages failing to be promoted and the state average was 7.5, just above the Allegany County figure. Out of 1,442 first graders in the year which ended June 30, 1956, 105 failed to pass in this county. They included 83 boys and 42 girls. Garrett County had 8.7 per cent failures in the first grade.

The program will include an address by Governor McKeldin and the election of minority leaders for the House and Senate.

The Legislature will open a 30-day session on Wednesday.

He now resides in Hagerstown. He had been driving with the Blue Ridge Lines for 22 years when it was acquired by Greyhound a little over two years ago. Last year he was awarded a wrist watch and citation as "Driver of Distinction," by Governor Leader of Pennsylvania, on behalf of the Pennsylvania Bus Association.

Real Good Neighbors

While several thousand people in Allegany County have given a pint or more of blood at the regular visits of the Red Cross Bloodmobile, a small group of regular donors have furnished the enthusiasm and set the example which keeps the program moving along. Pictured here are six of the county's Three Gallon Club members. Each has donated 24 or more pints of blood to the Red Cross. There are seven Three Gallon members in the county but Mary Soethe could not be present for the picture. Seated left to right are Mrs. William Alderton and Mrs. Ethel Hudson. Standing are Robert Snowden, Walter Howser, William Scott Jr., and Charles Hoenicka. Red Cross officials note there are over 400 members of the One and Two Gallon Clubs in this county. The Bloodmobile will visit the city again on Monday.

Moose Urge Construction Of Route 40

Cumberland Lodge 271, Loyal Order of Moose, last night adopted a resolution favoring the earliest possible construction of US Route 40 between Cumberland and Hancock, according to Clifford Goodfellow, governor of the lodge.

The resolution says in part that the construction of a safe, adequate and modern highway from Cumberland to Hancock is the most urgently needed highway project in Western Maryland, and that this route links Cumberland and Allegany County with Baltimore, Annapolis and Washington.

The resolution further notes that the Route 40 construction from Cumberland to Hancock is embodied in the state's revised 15-year roads program and is scheduled to be built in the next phase of the program.

The resolution urges the Allegany County Delegation to take all necessary steps to have this route given top priority on the construction schedule, with copies of the resolution to be sent to the members of the State Roads Commission and governor of Maryland as well as the legislators.

On Tuesday night, Cumberland Aerie 245, Fraternal Order of Eagles, adopted the same resolution, and the document is scheduled on the agendas of several other lodges.

Building Expert To Inspect 'Y'

Maurice Robbins, representative of the National YMCA Buildings and Furnishings Bureau, New York, will inspect the physical facilities of Cumberland's Central YMCA Thursday.

Earl Chaney, chairman of the YMCA building committee, and members of the group will look over the institution with Mr. Robbins and then will meet with the "Y" board of directors at 6 p. m.

B. U. Smith, general secretary of the YMCA, said the board will hear suggestions and comments by Mr. Robbins and will then decide what action may be taken to improve the local institution's operational facilities.

Westvaco Is Producing First Stretchable Paper

Stretchable paper is being produced commercially by West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company.

The new product — the first smooth-surfaced paper in the industry — is being manufactured on a new $25,000,000 paper machine at the company's Charleston, S. C., mill.

Westvaco officials said the production of the stretchable paper marks the partial commercial realization of a long dream of papermakers to develop a sheet with elastic characteristics.

Varying degrees of controlled strength, imparted by mechanical means, gives the new paper unprecedented toughness.

It is smooth in surface and resembles a regular sheet of paper.

The new product, another of the many firsts in the 70-year history of the paper firm, has been named Clupak.

It was developed by Westvaco

County Hi-Y Delegates To Meet Sunday

Delegations from clubs in the Allegany County Hi-Y Council will hold a Zone 4 meeting at 2:30 p. m. Sunday at Central YMCA, when delegates for the Youth and Government program will be selected.

Members of Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y clubs from Bruce, Valley, Fort Hill, Allegany, Beall, Oldtown and Central schools will be present at the meeting.

In addition to selection of the 40 members of the county council who will attend Model Legislature sessions at College Park and Annapolis later this year, the local groups will decide on titles of bills to be presented.

Sunday's meeting will be one of two preparatory meetings the county council delegates will hold prior to the pre-legislation meeting of the Youth and Government program at College Park on March 15.

State officials for the Model Legislature at Annapolis on April 10, 11 and 12 will be elected at the College Park session.

The local group is grooming William Sitter, of Allegany, co-president of the council and vice president of the National Hi-Y Congress, to run for Boy Governor of the Model Legislature. The county council had another member, Miss Barbara Mann, elected president of the Senate at last year's session.

This year's delegation of the Youth and Government program will attend the College Park and Annapolis sessions with B. U. Smith, general secretary at the local YMCA, as counselor and advisor.

Court Holds Disposition In Morals Case

Magistrate Fred H. Anderson withheld disposition of a morals case in Juvenile Court yesterday pending psychiatric examinations for three of the persons involved.

The court ordered Paul Howard Shanski, 23, of 521 Furnace Street, held in County Jail until he can be examined by a local physician. Shanski was charged with contributing to the delinquency of five boys, ranging from eight to 16 years of age.

Magistrate Anderson dismissed delinquent minor charges against two eight-year-old boys and an 11-year-old youngster, then ordered the other two, 13 and 16 years old, to undergo psychiatric examination at mental hygiene clinics here. Both were released in the custody of their parents following yesterday afternoon's hearing.

In another hearing yesterday Magistrate Anderson placed under lenient supervision a 13-year-old boy who had taken money from his teacher but had made restitution.

A Juvenile Court case involving James Eugene Porter, 23, of Hyndman, Pa., his 20-year-old brother, Ronald Jesus Porter of Corriganville, and a 16-year-old Corriganville youth was postponed until Monday at 10:30 a. m. The Porter brothers are charged with contributing to the delinquency of the 16-year-old boy. The trio reportedly stole a quantity of goods from an uncle of the Porter boys in Barreille.

Magistrate Anderson said he postponed the case when James Porter requested counsel at his hearing. The court said Porter's counsel asked a continuance in order to have the opportunity to be present.

County Gets 9% Less From Liquor

Allegany County's revenue from distilled spirit delivered to retailers in the three months between last October 1 and December 31 was off 9.2 per cent from the corresponding three months of 1956.

State Comptroller J. Millard Tawes reported this week that Allegany County will receive a check for $20,375.31 from the excise tax on distilled spirits delivered to the retailer. The state collects $1.50 for each gallon delivered and returns 50 cents of it to the county where the delivery was made.

Allegany County's check for the final three months of 1956 was $22,440.43. For the 1956-57 fiscal year which ended last June 30, this county received $65,627.42.

Comptroller Tawes said that for the first six months of the current fiscal year receipts from the excise tax on whisky are running 3.4 per cent behind the level of 1956.

Many retailers built up their inventories during the late months of 1956 in anticipation of a price increase in many brands.

Parent Groups Are Evaluated

Outside observers came to Allegany County Wednesday for a second evaluation of the parent-child discussion program being conducted for the first time this year in the public schools here.

Wednesday morning the observers observed the discussion group meeting at Gephart School under the direction of Mrs. Kathleen Kave. That afternoon they observed the group at Midland School directed by Mrs. Florence Snelson.

The observers included Dr. John Kurtz and Jacob Goering of the Child Study Institute of the University of Maryland, Mrs. J. Nussbaum, chairman of the family living committee of the Maryland PTA Congress, and Miss Esther M. Carter, Frederick H. Sheeley and Eugene J. Hopkins, visiting teachers in the pupil personnel department. Homer S. Higgins, supervisor of pupil personnel, was unable to attend because he is a patient in Memorial Hospital.

A general meeting for parents and leaders is being planned for April 16 with a consultant attending from the University of Maryland.

SS Payments From Farmers Due Today

Today is the deadline for farm operators to report the wages and pay 4½ per cent Social Security tax on cash wages they paid certain farm employees during 1957. James E. Robertson, manager of the Cumberland district office noted.

These reports, which are filed with the Internal Revenue Service, must be made by any farmer who paid his farm employee $150 or more in cash wages or who paid cash wages of any amount to a farm employee who worked for him 20 or more days in the calendar year 1957 and who was paid on a time basis, that is by the hour, day or week.

Of the total 4½ per cent tax, half or 2¼ per cent should be withheld from wages paid, and the employer pays the additional half or 2¼ per cent.

Wages paid to farm employees on a piece-rate basis need not be reported unless the total cash wages amounted to $150 or more for 1957.

Keyser Man Fined In Fatal Hunting Mishap

Andrew Simpson Shot Relative

A 25-year-old Keyser, W. Va. man, who fatally wounded his brother-in-law in a hunting accident in December, was fined $100 yesterday on a negligent shooting charge.

Andrew Simpson, 29 Gilmore Street, was found guilty at a hearing before Justice of the Peace Miss Gay Mellon, who also suspended Simpson's hunting privileges for five years.

Victim of the shooting was Howard K. Barricks Jr., 25, also of 29 Gilmore Street. The accidental shooting occurred December 4 and Barricks died at Potosi Valley Hospital on December 18.

The two men were deer hunting on the Simpson farm about five miles east of Keyser on West Virginia State Route 46 when the accident occurred.

Simpson said he fired at what he thought was a deer in a clump of pines, and when he went to investigate found that he had shot his brother-in-law.

The bullet from the .30-calibre rifle struck Barricks and ranged downward through his abdomen. He was taken to the hospital by Simpson and several other hunters and remained in serious condition until his death 14 days later.

Claude Rice, West Virginia Conservation Commission officer, who conducted the investigation of the shooting, said Simpson was originally scheduled to be tried for negligent shooting on December 18, but Simpson suffered a mild heart attack on December 14 and Donald C. Hott, prosecuting attorney for Mineral County, postponed the hearing until yesterday afternoon.

Ward Store Employees Not On Strike Here

The manager of the local Montgomery Ward Company store yesterday clarified the position his firm is taking in connection with picketing of the building at the corner of South George and Baltimore streets.

F. B. Sims, local manager, said the employees at the Cumberland store are not out on strike and there is no labor dispute between them and the company.

He declared the Cumberland store is being picketed or hand billed by people hired on the instruction of officers of the Retail Clerks Union in Washington.

The workers at the local store are not represented by the Retail Clerks Union, he added.

The store, he continued, is being picketed to support a demand by the national officers of the union that Ward grant a uniform wage increase to all employees of 62 stores located in different sections of the country, and that Ward sign a contract requiring the discharge of any worker who does not join the union.

The company's position on the compulsory union membership is that the firm fully recognizes the right of its employees to join any union of their choice, and also believes the employees should not be compelled to join a union against their wishes.

As for the uniform wage increase, Montgomery Ward officials said the policy of the company is to pay wages which are at least as high as those paid by its competitors in the cities where its stores are located.

Sims pointed out the 62 stores for which the union demands a uniform wage increase are located in widely separated cities, with economic and competitive conditions varying greatly.

The company, he added, repeatedly has offered to bargain with the union at each store where it represents the employees, but the Retail Clerks organization has rejected this offer, insisting on the uniform wage hike.

The firm also announced that the Retail Clerks Union itself does not have a contract with any other retailer from whom it seeks a company-wide pay increase.
